Rib Mountain Vandals Cut Phone Lines

Wausau — Vandals who climbed a pole on Rib Mountain and chopped away at overhead lines with a hatchet put 105 long distance telephone circuits and 16 private lines out of service during the night.

Wisconsin Telephone Co. officials said that 48 wires were hacked off on both sides of the pole, and an aerial cable was severed.

Services Disrupted

Long distance service at Wausau, Merrill, Tomahawk, Rhineland and Antigo was cut when the vandalism occurred, about 8:25 p.m., but was re-routed after about 45 minutes.

However, William I. Ives of Stevens Point, company manager for the area, said that full service was not restored on all lines until 6:30 a.m. today.

He said that damage would run into "thousands of dollars."

County and federal officials worked jointly on the case today, since interstate circuits were involved.

Sheriff Walter Wolf of Marathon county said footprints indicated that only one man apparently was involved. Examining the terrain, the sheriff said he found evidence that the man drove up in a car, then put on climbers and walked to the pole.

It took phone company troubleshooters until midnight to find where the wires were cut. They had to climb over boulders and rugged, rock-strewn hills to locate the break after checking roads to find wires that were down.

Truman Hits At Republicans

Blames Them for Farm Difficulties, Business Recession

Denver — Former President Harry S. Truman blamed the Eisenhower administration, in a speech last night, for farm difficulties and the business recession and charged it has led the country "into a position of great international peril."

He made a flat bid for Democratic votes in his talk which was delivered to the National Farmers union convention.

"If you want to improve the welfare of the farmer; if you want to restore prosperity; if you want to strengthen our defenses; if you want to repair the injury that has been done to the international security of the country," he said, "there is one clear-cut thing you can do. You can vote for a Democratic congress in 1958 and for a Democratic president in 1960."

Truman asserted that profits of food processors and distributors have increased sharply since President Eisenhower took office while farmers' income has dropped by $4 billion a year from levels achieved during his administration. He also said it is costing the taxpayers at least $4 billion annually more to run the department of agriculture than when he was in office.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, Truman said, should be called "expensive Ezra," but he added that "if you could get rid of Benson, you probably wouldn't change a thing."

U. S. Continues Efforts to Get Low Level Talks

Rejects Russian Demands for Quick Summit Conference

Washington — The United States brushed aside Soviet "instant - summit" propaganda today and stuck to its quest for a new low level disarmament talks by April.

Officials said the White House will make clear soon that the new U.S. disarmament negotiator, James J. Wadsworth, is authorized to discuss disarmament at any time with a comparable Soviet representative.

They said Wadsworth's instructions are simply to keep the allies informed of whatever he does, and get the disarmament deadlock off dead center.

These officials expected a United Nations disarmament commission meeting some time in April. But the Russians are boycotting this 25-nation group on the grounds that its membership is stacked against them.

May Go to UN

The next planned U.S. move, if the Russians hold to their announced boycott, is to go to the U.N. Security council for advice on how next to proceed. The Russians have vowed not to discuss disarmament matters themselves there. But officials are confident that Soviets would never boycott the council. The last time they did that, the council authorized use of American and other U.N. troops against the communists in Korea.

Secretary of State Dulles returned to Washington yesterday from the Far East, immediately taking charge of U.S. strategy on the disarmament and other likely summit conference topics.

The last few days of Dulles' 10-day stay in the Pacific were marked by a flurry of Soviet public pronouncements.

The effect of these was renewed Soviet emphasis on boycotting the disarmament commission and a 4-point Soviet plan agreeing to pledge outer space for peaceful purposes exclusively provided the United States gave up all its overseas bases.

Cuban Police Kill 3 Fleeing Rebels

Havana — Three rebels were shot to death early today in a running gunfight with police.

The rebels opened fire when police attempted to halt their automobile in the Alta Havana suburb near the highway to the International airport. There were no police casualties.

Police said the rebels were transporting arms and intended to attack a police station. In Camaguey province, Fidel Castro rebels were reported to have dynamited a bridge.

President Fulgencio Batista's defense department said shock up his 7,700-man national police and ordered it to "crush remainder of this year will remain at about the same level."

13,000 Men in Army Draft Call for May

Washington — The army today issued a draft call for 13,000 men in May.

This is the same quota previously announced for the month of February, March and April. The new call brings to 2,322,430 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of selective service in September, 1950.

In announcing the May call, the defense department said that the monthly quotas for the remainder of this year will remain at about the same level.

Indonesian Army Claims Full Control

Reports It Holds Oil Center And North Sumatran Port

Jakarta, Indonesia — The Indonesian army claimed today that it has the situation "completely under control" in the central Sumatra oil center of Pakanbaru and the North Sumatra post of Medan.

Belying rebel claims, Associated Press correspondent Fred Waters reported from Pakanbaru that only an "occasional exchange of small arms fire" from across the river south of the city disturbed the quiet there.

"The firing, presumably by guerrilla units of the Indonesian rebel forces, is returned by Jakarta government troops," Waters said. He added that officials of the American Caltex Oil Co. arrived from Singapore today to discuss resumption of operations in the oil fields near Pakanbaru.

Premier Djuanda declared today that stability can be restored in Indonesia if foreign nations "prevent their adventurers from selling or smuggling arms to rebels."

The premier issued an unusual statement underscoring the government's belief that anti-communist groups abroad are helping the rebels. But he did not indicate that he believes the adventurers are aided by their governments.

Known as Moderate

The Indonesian government has stated that arms were dropped to the rebels in Sumatra before the army made landings there last week. A leftist newspaper charged that an Australian Air Force plane dropped arms, but Australia issued a sharp denial.

"I want to stress that any intervention from outside, be it undercover or in the open, will constitute a precedent very dangerous to Asian countries on the whole," Djuanda stressed.

He said the rebels must not be given belligerent status by foreign nations.

Djuanda, moderate who is not a member of any party, said foreign news dispatches.

Unrest Rules in Saudi Arabia

Executions Said to Result From Foes Of King Saud's Rule

Cairo — Usually reliable sources who say they are in close touch with Saudi Arabia report a wave of executions and arrests there to put down widespread opposition to King Saud's rule.

These reports come at the height of an Egyptian government propaganda campaign against King Saud which attempts to put the Saudi position in the worst possible light. But it is difficult to check the reports, since newsmen rarely get visas to visit Saudi Arabia and the government there has installed tight control over communications.

Egyptian propaganda reports tell of a "free Saudi" movement in the kingdom patterned after the Egyptian revolutionary movement. The reports say that since the beginning of March there have been a number of arrests and executions of these "free Saudis" measure.

The actual money will be in a later appropriation bill. In advance of today's hearings, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) predicted the senate will approve substantially all of the Eisenhower foreign aid request, but said house cuts may cripple the program.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), who advocates sharp cuts, predicted a slash of nearly a billion dollars in the proposals before both houses complete action.

The committee called McElroy and Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, to explain the request for $1,800,000,000 in direct military assistance and $865 million in defense supports included in the measure.

The defense support funds provide economic aid to some allies to enable them to devote more of their own resources to maintaining defense armies.

"I think the senate will vote an authorization bill substantially close to the administration estimates," Fulbright told reporters, "but I am fearful the house appropriations committee will cut it again as it has in the past when it takes up the bill providing money for the authorizations."

This is the goal, too, of the house foreign affairs committee, which started hearings some weeks ago on the same measure.

Cites Necessity for Strong Free World

Must be Ready to Deliver Devastating Counterblow if Attacked, McElroy Says

Washington — Secretary of Defense McElroy said today the free world must be kept strong enough to deliver "a counterblow of devastating effectiveness" in the event of a surprise attack.

As long as the United States and its allies can do that, McElroy told the senate foreign relations committee, "the likelihood of all-out nuclear warfare will remain relatively remote."

McElroy appeared with Gen. Nathan Twining in support of President Eisenhower's $3,942,092,500 foreign aid program. This includes $1,800,000,000 in direct military supplies and $835,000,000 in economic support to help allies maintain strong defense forces.

Senator Asks Abolition of Probe Group

Washington — Lyman C. Conger, counsel to the Kohler Co., testified today the firm paid informants for affidavits denouncing leaders of the 4-year-old strike against Kohler. He said this was in connection with a search by private detectives for evidence to link strike leaders with subversion and communism.

Conger also told the senate rackets investigating committee the private detectives investigated a national labor relations board lawyer named Albert Gore. He said the object was to determine whether Gore had used a phony excuse for winning a delay in an NLRB hearing on the strike.

Conger denounced union tactics in a 50-page statement which was introduced in evidence without being read aloud, a time-saving idea to which he agreed.

The inquiry has stirred many arguments among members of the special investigating committee. One of them, Sen. McNamara (D-Mich), has urged that the senate abolish the group.

Among other things, Conger denounced the refusal of Michigan's Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams to surrender to Wisconsin authorities UAW member John Gunaca of Detroit. Gunaca was being charged with the assault of a Kohler non-striker, who died of a heart ailment about 16 months later.

Calls Gunaca "Goon"

Conger said Gunaca was "another imported goon" brought into Wisconsin by the union, and said the constitution gives governors no discretion about surrendering a fugitive.

Williams has said Gunaca would not receive a fair trial because of emotions stirred by the long strike. Gunaca has said he is willing to stand trial in Milwaukee or some other Wisconsin area away from the Kohler plant.

Conger said the UAW has denied Kohler workers "basic rights" guaranteed by the Taft-Hartley labor relations law. He said a union which does this and engages in terrorism "should be denied recourse to the processes of the act, the same as communists are now barred." The union in turn has blamed the company for "fostering violence."

Conger disputed the union's charges that the company has refused to bargain in good faith.

"We are willing to bargain with any union that respects our employees," he said, "but we will not bargain with a gun at our head."

Conger told the committee that since the strike started on April 5, 1954, "the Kohler Co. has been subjected to a planned attack using every coercive and illegal weapon that a powerful and ruthless union oligarchy could throw at it."

Conger said one of the major issues preventing settlement of the strike is whether the company will rehire a group of 33 discharged employees.

Explains Policy

He testified the company discharged 90 employees but a national labor relations board trial examiner ruled that it should rehire 33 of these. He said the company has filed exceptions to this recommendation, which is now under consideration by the full NLRB.

Conger said company policy is to rehire striking employees, with the exception of the 33, if they want their jobs back but only when a job opens up.

In other words, he said, the firm will not fire a present worker to make room for a striking employee who wants to return.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, asked about working conditions in the plant's enamel shop. He said the trial examiner reported temperatures there ranged from 100 to 250 degrees.

Calling on the senate to end the special committee's life, McNamara announced he would oppose a proposal by Sen. Morse (D-Ore) to give Democrats control of the committee by adding one ex-Democratic member. Morse said the action was needed to

Air Force Takes Responsibility for Projectiles in Sheboygan Falls Area

Sheboygan Falls — The air force has shouldered the blame for 20 mm. cannon projectiles that hammered into the homes and on the streets. An unarmed RB47 from Lockbourne was with the B47 on the flight.

Col. M. E. Beveridge, operations director at Lockbourne, was ordered to conduct an investigation to determine if an electrical malfunction caused the cluster of four cannons to fire.

A total of 23 persons were in the residences when shells pierced the roofs. Owners John Novotny, Lloyd Theune and Francis Decley were told by Saunders how to file damage claims. At least five shells tore into the three houses which lay in about a straight line. Two a rectangular area about 23 miles from the shore. The range is about 3 miles. Its northernmost streets of this community of 3,395 persons about 15 miles north of Milwaukee.

Gen. Saunders said the strategic air command bomber was on the lookout for any other unexploded shells and were told to take them to the county sheriff's office if any were found. Saunders said the recovered shells were spent.

Van Pelt Protests
The general announced the results of his investigation at the same time that Rep. William Van Pelt whose sixth district includes Sheboygan Falls, asked Air Force Secretary Douglas to order curtailment of training flights over populated areas in the future.

Residents were warned to be Falls.

Companion Sphere For Vanguard Due

Navy Reported Planning to Place Full Scale IGY Satellite in Nose Cone of Next Space Rocket

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — The Vanguard baby satellite launched St. Patrick's day may acquire a sister sphere three times as big next month.

Before that happens, and probably some time this month, another tubular Explorer satellite may sweep into an orbit.

And about the time both new satellites are settled into the routine of circling the earth, the last remaining Russian moon, Sputnik II, may drop out of existence.

This prospect opened today with the disclosure that the navy was so encouraged with its brilliant launching Monday that it has decided to place a full scale IGY (international geophysical year) satellite in the nose of the next Vanguard rocket.

Change of Plans

This was an abrupt change of plans. Only last Monday, two hours after the launching, navy officials told a news conference that another midsize satellite would be used for the next Vanguard try.

Rear Arm. Rawson Bennett, chief of naval research, told reporters at Dallas that the next Vanguard shot would come within the next few weeks.

Bennett said that although the next Vanguard rocket would contain a "full sized IGY satellite conducting at least two experiments," the launching would still be a test rather than an all-out satellite try.

Bennett said that after that attempt would come six Vanguard launches with satellites conducting a greater variety of explorations in space.

The admiral added that it would be beyond normal expectations to hope that all six would get into successful orbits.

The new Vanguard satellite is being along at a daily clip of almost 11 full turns around the earth, or slightly less than 375,000 miles a day.

Bennett said the navy intended the satellite to attain an orbit ranging from 300 to 1,500 miles in space, but that its speed was so great it went into a path between 404 and 2,460 miles out.

The IGY full scale satellite is 20 inches in diameter, compared with 6.4 inches for Vanguard I, and weighs 21½ pounds against 3½ pounds for the mighty midsize.

Explorer Launching

The next army Explorer launching, which Army Secretary Brucker said would come within a week, will employ the same Jupiter-C type of 4-stage rocket as was used in the army's successful firing of Jan. 31.

Although the air force kept quiet about it, it was learned that one of the newest guided

Students Claim Story Brought Police Threat

Editors Charged West Provoked Incidents With Reds

Oxford, England — Three 21-year-old Oxford university student editors say they were threatened with police action for publishing an article charging the west provokes incidents with Russia to get military intelligence information.

There was no immediate police comment.

The article in the monthly student magazine Isis said British monitoring stations along the Soviet frontier from Iraq to the Baltic record everything sent by radio from Soviet "ships, tanks, airplanes, troops and control stations."

Flagrant Breach

"It is believed, perhaps rightly," it continued, "that this flagrant breach of the Geneva convention can provide accurate estimates of the size and type of Russian armaments and troops and the nature of their tactical methods."

"Since the Russians do not always provide the required messages," they are sometimes provoked. A plane 'loses' its way while behind a frontier. Tape recorders excitedly read the irritated exchanges of Russian pilots and when the latter sometimes force an airplane to land, an international incident is created and reported in the usual fashion.

"In a moment of crisis, irresponsibility of this kind could well frighten the Russians into war," the article declared.

Threatened Him

Assistant Editor Paul Thompson told reporters "two plainclothes men in overcoats and black hats" threatened him and another assistant editor, William Miller, with being charged under the official secrets act.

"They asked me who wrote the article, but I didn't tell them," Thompson said. "It was written from the personal experiences of someone who was in the forces."

Clergy Protests Gein Auction on Palm Sunday

Plainfield Ministers Object to Commercializing Of Crimes Connected With Bachelor's Farm

Plainfield — Four clergy-men are among persons who have protested plans for a Palm Sunday auction at the farm of admitted slayer and ghoul Ed Gein.

Opposition to the March 30 date for the sale was noted in the weekly Plainfield Sun by publisher Ed Marolla, who said Tuesday the ministers objected to "commercializing the crimes" connected with the farm.

As a result, Marolla said groups had dropped plans to sell postal cards and serve lunches during a public showing of the property next Sunday and the sale on Palm Sunday.

Last week Waushara County Judge Boyd Clark ruled out a plan by Farm Sales Service of Reedsburg, conducting the auction, to charge 50 cents admission to inspect the farm on Sunday.

The firm said its plan was intended to discourage the curious, but Clark said it would have the opposite effect.

Truck Driver's Death Raises Highway Toll

Milwaukee — The death of a truck driver whose rig went off the road in a snow-squall has raised Wisconsin's 1958 highway death toll to 123, compared with 161 on this date a year ago.

Percy Funk, 44, of Shawano was injured fatally Tuesday night when his empty semi-trailer tank truck wandered off the shoulder of Highway 55, 26 miles north of Shawano, and crashed into a grove of trees. It was snowing hard at the time.

Marie McDonald Denies Husband Had Her Kidnaped

Los Angeles — Actress Marie McDonald has tearfully denied her story that her estranged husband arranged to have her kidnaped last year.

Elegantly dressed in the new "sack look," Miss McDonald, 34, met Tuesday with law enforcement officers. They questioned her about the story she told two weeks ago in Cincinnati that the mission fathers don't make her husband, wealthy shoeman Harry Karl, masterminded the swallows' sense of timing in kidnapping.

Dabbling her eyes with a little handkerchief, the Junoesque actress, known as "the body" little community surrounding told reporters later: "Just say that I am retracting the whole story."

Karl called her accusation ridiculous. He took a lie detector test Monday. Later Police Chief William H. Parker said the weather had said Karl had no guilty knowledge of the kidnapping.

Young Hero Gets State Merit Award

Madison — An Arena High School senior, who minimized his hero's role, received Wisconsin's award of merit it Tuesday for saving the lives of four fellow students.

Robert Jones, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowers of the Assembly of God church, all of Plainfield, Madison, received the award from Gov. Thomson.

"I didn't do anything to earn it," Robert insisted. The citation was arranged, without his knowledge, by the state motor vehicle department, which had issued the award of merit only three times before.

Robert jumped from a school bus last September and knocked four fellow students out of the path of a speeding car. The four students had dismounted from the bus and were starting across the road when Robert saw an auto approaching at high speed.

The car hit the bus. The motor vehicle department said the auto also probably would have hit the four students if Robert hadn't shoved them off the road and into the ditch.

Thinks Auto's Big 3 Will Make Small Cars

Detroit — Burnham Finney, editor of American Machinist, predicts that the auto industry's big three soon will be producing small cars to compete with foreign makers.

He said the Chevrolet division of General Motors corporation has bids out for small cars and dies and tools and said he expected Ford and Chrysler to follow.

Rocket Genius Tells of Minutes 'Sweating Out' Success of Explorer I

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
Dallas — Dr. Wernher Von Braun, the rocket genius, talked for nearly two hours last night and scarcely anybody even fidgeted.

He just pulled hundreds of scientists and engineers into his own orbit while telling them:

About "the eight most exciting minutes of my life, kind of a desperate minutes" sweating out success of Explorer I on Jan. 31.

That Vanguard, launched Monday, is an unprecedented feat in rocketry, since it started from scratch two years ago dark green glasses, and building a new, untested, complicated rocket that fast is something "never, never done before."

Radio Frequency That so many satellites are coming up that they'll have to be given different radio frequency voices to avoid a kind of spatial tower of Babel.

In a news conference, Dr. Von Braun added he thought humans would be orbiting around on satellites in two to five years.

The Russians may launch another sputnik anytime, he added. But he thinks they used military rockets to get their first two up. Since then, the Clooney and her husband, Jose Ferrer, are expecting their fourth child in October.

The singer said Tuesday she plans to take a year off from television when her current show ends in June.

The couple's other children Rocket society and American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Miguel, 3, Maria, 2, and Gabriel, 7 months.

neers, Dr. Von Braun gave a detailed history of Explorer I, launched by the army.

He said he's been erroneously given most of the credit for this first U. S. satellite, and listed all the others who should get credit.

"I hope they do get it not only because they deserve it—but then also maybe some of the mountains of mail will be channelled to them."

Wait in Washington

When Explorer I was fired, he and Dr. William Pickering, director of the jet propulsion laboratory at California Institute of Technology, were waiting in Washington.

"If it was successful, we had to go meet the press. Nobody said what we should do if it missed. But I had a pair of ed from scratch two years ago dark green glasses, and thought I'd just go to a movie," Dr. Von Braun said.

"Antigua, 1,500 miles from Florida, had heard Explorer pass overhead soon after launching. We calculated this meant 106 minutes for an orbit. But when 106 minutes passed, there was no confirmation. Those next eight minutes were the most exciting of my life" until the signal was heard "and we knew we were in business."

Another sputnik anytime, he added. But he thinks they used military rockets to get their first two up. Since then, the Clooney and her husband, Jose Ferrer, are expecting their fourth child in October.

The singer said Tuesday she plans to take a year off from television when her current show ends in June.

Russians Appear Making Concessions To Private Enterprise in Agriculture

Budapest — Since the 1956 revolt, Hungary's communist authorities have applied the brakes sharply to farm collectivization.

Hungary, population 60 per cent farmers, now seems to be going the way of Yugoslavia and Poland in making concessions to private enterprise in agriculture.

Those who fought the Russians in the fall of 1956 were mostly city people, students and industrial workers. Farmers helped out with food and busied themselves disbanding their collectives, but apparently they took little active part in the fighting.

Go-Easy Policy

During the uprising, communist Premier Imre Nagy began a go-easy policy toward the farmers. His successors call Nagy a traitor. But they show no signs of haste in reversing his farm policy.

Some Hungarians say the Russians would have faced a full-blown peasant rebellion if they tried to hold the collective farms together by force, restore the policy of forced crop deliveries, or prevent peasants from buying and selling land.

Such measures are "Stalinist," like most European farmers, Hungarian peasants hate collectives. The government tries to assure them they really own their land collectively and can make more money by pooling their labor and resources. But they prefer to work their own fields—and they showed their sentiments in 1956 when two-thirds of the collectives collapsed during the revolt. The government now says some of these were dissolved by force.

Hungary's peasants were land-hungry after World War II. They had lived under a feudal system of huge, privately owned estates. When they got land in 1945, they wanted to keep it. Until the communists took over, there were only seven cooperatives in the whole country. But by 1956, communist pressure put together 3,911 collectives, almost a fourth of the nation's farmland.

Theoretically, large-scale farming should have been more productive than small-scale farms. But the farms didn't produce. Hungary, once a breadbasket for Europe, became a food importer.

Hungarian communists, like those in Poland and Yugoslavia, insist collectivization still is the goal. But they seem to acknowledge that for the present the farmers work more productively on their own land.

Today, about 41 million Hungarians, more than 40 per cent of the population, are on private enterprise farms—small enterprises, because few families are permitted to hold more than a maximum of 35 acres. Getting them to join collectives again, voluntarily, looks like a long, uphill fight for the regime.

Everyone Demanding New Leadership, Says Democratic Head

Wausau — Republicans, Democrats and independents are demanding new leadership at both the state and national levels, Patrick Lucey, chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic party, said Monday night.

"Democrats must face up soberly to the new responsibilities brought about by this situation," Lucey said in a speech at a Marathon county Democratic party meeting.

Lucey said that in the weeks ahead Democrats must work diligently in forming a "responsible and responsive program of action" and recruit able candidates for every partisan office.

Rotary Speaker Relates History of Surgical Art

Surgery is as old as mankind. Dr. Victor Marshall, Appleton, told the Appleton Rotary club Tuesday noon as he traced the history of surgery from ancient beginnings to the present day.

Ancient man put his tools to work in rudimentary operations as well as in earning a livelihood. Pricking an abscess with a thorn was one of the earliest operations, the doctor declared.

Brain Surgery

In ancient Egypt, Mexico and North Africa brain surgery was common. Skilled physicians performed operations and re-mains found in tombs have shown patients lived at least long enough for the wound to heal, Dr. Marshall said.

Natives in South Pacific islands today still use the ancient techniques of brain surgery, he said.

Other common forms of surgery in early times included amputations, crushing of bladder stones, forms of plastic surgery and Caesarean sections.

Principles Codified

Surgical principles and techniques were codified by Hippocrates, in ancient Greece, Dr. Marshall continued. The first work in comparative anatomy was done by Aristotle.

Despite the great civilization, few great surgical strides were made during the days of the Roman empire, he stated.

Dr. Marshall said surgery reached a low ebb during the period after the fall of the Roman empire. Monks carried on the art, but eventually surgery fell into the hands of surgical barbers. Techniques were crude and unsanitary and surgery was held in little regard by the public.

After a long lapse, surgery came into its own in an atmosphere of free scientific inquiry. William Harvey, discoverer of blood circulation, and other medical men helped establish the foundation on which present surgery is built, Dr. Marshall stated.

Provide Data

In the 19th century Lister, Pasteur and Koch provided surgeons with solid physical data to use in their practice. The work of all three men helped establish sanitary methods of modern surgery.

American surgeons began to use anesthetics in the 19th century, marking one of the most significant steps in the history of surgery, the doctor declared.

X-rays, blood transfusions, brain and heart surgery were cited by Dr. Marshall as significant modern surgical strides. He said development of heart surgery since 1940 has been aided by better use of anesthetics, antibiotics and blood transfusions.

Most significant of modern trends, he stated, is use of synthetic materials to replace body organs.

Indonesian Army Claims Full Control

reflect rebel charges that the Indonesian government is influenced by foreign countries. The rebels have cited opposition to communism as one of their differences with the government.

Djuanda specifically cited Time magazine, which published a cover picture of President Sukarno and a story on Indonesia on March 10. Djuanda said he regretted that Time "found it necessary to defame the name of our head of state."

Indonesians have expressed resentment against the cover drawing of Sukarno, which they said made him look sinister, and references to his personal life. The issue was confiscated in Indonesia.

Djuanda said the government "will not allow the present internal conflict to be converted into a struggle for power between communist and anti-communist groups and equally the government will not allow the Indonesian situation to be interpreted as a campaign either against the United States or against the Soviet Union."

Foreign Minister Subandrio recently denied that the Indonesian government is under any communist influences.

There were no new reports from the rebels who claimed last night to have recaptured Pakanbaru and reopened the fight for Medan after it changed hands twice.

The Indonesian Air Force said it had inflicted many casualties on a rebel force retreating south from Medan. Both the army and air force said Medan now was quiet.

Sources in Jakarta said they heard reports of skirmishes about 40 miles from Medan, Sumatra's largest city of 300,000 persons. The rebels said the Achinese, renowned Moslem warriors claiming to have 150,000 fighting men in northern Sumatra, had pushed south to the outskirts of Medan and clashed with Jakarta troops.

Medan was captured by mutinous rebel units Sunday but Jakarta government paratroopers regained control Monday. An army spokesman said the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution, visited Medan yesterday and found conditions normal.

Pakanbaru and the $125 million U.S. oil installations in the area were captured last Wednesday by Jakarta forces. A rebel broadcast from Padang, on Sumatra's west coast, said rebel troops attacked Pakanbaru yesterday and Jakarta troops surrendered or fled. The Jakarta army spokesman denied this. "We are in complete and absolute possession of Pakanbaru airfield and the town as well as the surrounding oil installations," he said.

The revolutionary regime warned Monday that Americans in the Pakanbaru area should leave. There was no indication whether the estimated 600 Americans in the area had done so.

ing where feasible construction programs under existing appropriations and authorizations.

In the case of the $75 million public facility loan program the money will come from federal funds.

Loan to be Repaid
The $300 million in college housing loans is advanced by the federal government, and he used for needed facilities. It later paid back.

In the case of $1 billion for slum projects and other urban renewal, $800 million comes from private funds, about $133 million from the federal government, with the balance paid by municipalities.

The $140 million dollars for public housing is intended to speed up construction of 10,000 housing units with private money. Initiation of such projects rests mainly with the federal government, the White House said.

As for the rural electrification loan program, Eisenhower said in his letter to Benson:

"I am informed that there is a total of some $740 million of balances available but not yet used under previously approved loans. Since these funds would may be possible for cooperative and other borrowers to move forward the time at which orders are placed with manufacturers of materials and equipment under these programs."

Inflation Threat
Eisenhower also told Benson to "encourage additional facilities loans to finance farm and rural home installations for electrical services, and the purchase of electrical appliances and other equipment."

Byrd, who heads the senate finance committee, said the government is headed toward a $15 billion deficit if congress cuts taxes. He said any large scale red ink spending for pump priming will "add fuel to the inflation fire" and further cut the value of the dollar.

and what he called a "stalemate" and to restore party responsibility.

Opposes Suggestion
"It is long past the point where that would do any good," McNamara told newsmen later. "I feel strongly about it."

Vice Chairman Ives (R-NY) also opposed Morse's suggestion, saying he would quit the committee if a fifth Democrat were added. Such a move, he said, would put labor affairs into partisan politics.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark), replying to McNamara, said that "whenever I come to the conclusion that the usefulness of this committee has come to an end, I'll walk out on this floor and tell the senate."

Meanwhile, from both sides, partisan sources were busily leaking to newsmen the still unpublished report of the committee's first year of investigation in the labor-management field.

Reporters found few surprises in it. The majority report echoes statements made at various stages of the 1957 hearings. It accuses various union officials of the theft or misuse of $10 million of union funds, some of it for their own gain and the rest for the benefit of relatives, friends or fellow connivers.

It charges that "gangsters and hoodlums have successfully infiltrated the labor movement" and that violence in labor disputes too often is of such scope it could be called "a crime against the community."

McNamara refuses to go along with the majority, and has written a minority report which, it was learned, contends that the language is so broad it reads like an indictment of organized labor in general.

Works Board Informally Approves Guide for '58 Special Assessments

Curb, Gutter, Sidewalks to Cost Less Than Last Year; Other Prices at 1957 Levels

A guide for setting special assessments for 1958 street, sidewalk, sewer and water projects was informally endorsed Tuesday by the board of public works.

The guide lists the same prices per front foot as last year except for sidewalk and curb and gutter, which are lower.

Asphalt mat, $1 a front foot.
Curb and gutter, $1.70 a front foot, compared with $1.94 a front foot last year.
Sanitary sewer, $2.50 a front foot.

Cover Wide Range Of Improvement Charges for '58

Awarding of 10 city contracts will be completed tonight if the city council approves its board of public works' recommendations. All furnished low bids, unless otherwise specified.

Courtney and Plummer, Inc., Neshah, is recommended for the 1958 asphalt contract. The firm's price of $8.17 a ton on the so-called "state specs" was low.

Warren Wiesler is recommended for both the curb and gutter and sidewalk contracts. He quoted $1.68 a foot for curb and gutter and 33 cents a square foot for sidewalk.

Charles A. Green and Son, Inc., is recommended for the sewer trenching and laying contract.

Badger Iron
Landwehr and Hackl is recommended for the street grading contract. Its bid was adjudged lower than Wiesler's on the basis of extra charges, since both had otherwise identical bids. Landwehr and Hackl will grade streets in which there are no utilities for 54 cents a cubic yard and streets in which there are no utilities for 46 cents a square yard.

Concrete Pipe corporation is recommended for the contract to furnish sewer pipe.

Badger Iron Works, Menomonee, is recommended for the manhole and catch basin castings contract. Its bid was found to be lower than that of Neshah Foundry, which earlier had been reported as apparent low bidder.

Courtney and Plummer is recommended for the stone chips contract. Its bid was $2.24 a ton.

Landwehr and Hackl is recommended for the crushed stone contract. It was $1.56 a ton.

John Hennes Trucking company, Appleton, is recommended for the contract to repair a sludge tank at the sewage treatment plant. It bid $3,880.

Railroad to Move Into Junction Depot Monday

Last Passenger Train to Stop Downtown Will be No. 217, North-Bound, at 7:50

Transfer of Chicago and North Western Railway company passenger service to the Appleton Junction depot will take place Monday.

Fred Kurth, local agent, said the last passenger train to use the downtown depot will be No. 217, a north-bound carrier that will leave the downtown station at 7:50 Monday morning.

After the departure of No. 217, all passengers and mail will be loaded and discharged at the Appleton Junction depot, 1607 W. Second street, Kurth said.

Spruce up operations at the Junction are expected to be complete by the time of transfer, Kurth said. The Junction is east of the former Ashland division (Hortonville - to - Kaukauna) intersection of North Western tracks.

Within Year
Railway Express services will continue at the downtown depot, with connections to and from the trains maintained by trucks.

Railway Express and freight depot facilities maintained elsewhere in the downtown area are expected to be moved to the Junction within the year, railroad officials have said.

Double sealcoat, 44 cents a front foot.
Tack coat, 16 cents a front foot.

Grading and graveling of new street, $2 a front foot.
Grading and graveling of street on which the city has never worked before (in newly annexed areas), $1.74 a front foot.

Grading and graveling of city streets where gravel is being added, 96 cents a front foot.
The asphalt price will remain the same despite the better bid price this year from Courtney and Plummer, Inc., Neshah.

Works Director Edwin J. Duszynski said, because the city last year recovered only about 52.5 per cent of asphalt costs in assessments.

Holding the assessment sum will mean the city will recover a more realistic amount, he said.

Won't Ask Council
None of the assessment guides was determined by figuring indirect charges like engineering costs and fringe benefits for city street department workers.

Board members decided not to ask the city council for its approval of an assessment policy this year after City Atty. Don Jury explained that adoption of a per front foot assessment policy is illegal under a new state law.

Instead, the board ordered City Clerk Elden Broehm to send copies of the guide to all aldermen so that they will know the board's policy.

Board members, Jury explained, must personally view each improvement project and determine the assessment charge on the basis of their own weighing of the benefits and damages to property owners.

3 Acts of Vandalism Reported to Police
Three acts of vandalism were reported to police Tuesday. Police say that's one sign of spring.

Mrs. George Patterson, 1815 N. Lawe street, told police that vandals broke the glass in a lamp post in front of her home, tore off a name plate and stole the lamp bulb.

Mrs. John Studel, 1521 N. Clark street, told police that vandals cut an eight foot red maple tree about five feet off the ground and broke it off. She estimated that the tree was worth $15.

Police have a telephone handset which was ripped from an outside telephone booth in the 300 block of E. College avenue.

Petition Filed Opposing S. East Swim Pool Site
A petition opposing selection of the S. East street site proposed for an outdoor swimming pool was filed at city hall this afternoon.

City Clerk Elden J. Broehm said it was signed by 40 people who say they are residents of the S. East street and E. Harrison street area.

The petitioners say the former proposed site in Reid Municipal golf course, or Telulah park, or the Estabrook farm, would better serve the purpose.

Nearby streets, they say, are built to carry a lot of traffic and the pool would generate much traffic. They also say the pool would be constructed too close to their properties.

The proposed site at the north end of S. East is not large enough to provide for parking, the petitioners also say, and they expect a large overflow onto their strictly residential streets. There already is enough traffic from the golf course, they say.

They ask the council to consider their losses in value from noise and traffic that the pool will bring.

Mysterious Fire Causes $1,500 Damage

Blaze Erupts in Attic of Home of Robert Martens

Fire of unknown origin Tuesday afternoon resulted in an estimated $1,500 damage to the Douglas Martens home, 313 S. Lee street.

The Martens' 9-year-old boy, home alone at the time, discovered the fire in the partly-improved attic and ran to neighbors to sound alarm.

Mrs. E. G. Coon, 309 S. Lee, the next-door neighbor, called firemen.

Firemen arrived to find the attic thick with smoke. They had to use masks to gain entry.

The fire seemed to come from a chest of drawers built in a wall of a bedroom partitioned off in the attic.

Someone in House
The chest of drawers, its contents, including wool blankets which caused the thick smoke, and part of the floor were destroyed. There also was water damage to all beds and clothes in the room and scorching of all attic walls.

Neumann said there were no wires or combustible materials near the fire scene, although firemen did find a half-burned book of matches and an ash-tray.

Firemen worked about an hour putting the fire out and cleaning up.

Neumann said good insulation prevented the fire from bursting through the roof.

Firemen put out brush fires on S. Telulah avenue about 7:30 Tuesday night. They said the fires apparently were set by city crews cutting trees on S. Telulah and left unattended when it was believed they were out.

A gas odor was reported in the 2-family apartment at 710 N. Appleton street, but the explosion meter detected no gas.

Packers Acquire Lions' Krouse
Green Bay—The Green Bay Packers announced today that they have acquired big Ray Krouse, Detroit Lions defensive tackle, in their drive to reinforce their line for the 1958 National Football league campaign.

The 6-3, 270-pound former Maryland star came to the Packers in exchange for an undisclosed draft choice next year.

Iowa Stops Shipments Of Hogs Because of Outbreak of Cholera
Madison—A Wisconsin agriculture official said Tuesday Iowa is forbidding all shipments of hogs into Iowa because of an outbreak of cholera.

Dr. Edward A. Schilf of the Wisconsin agriculture department's animal health division, said Iowa officials announced they were banning shipments of hogs in an attempt to stop spread of the disease.

Dr. Schilf said the Iowa order probably would remain in effect about two weeks.

Lost-and-Found

Teenagers Leave Many Belongings at YMCA

The odds and ends stacked in boxes in the Terrors' Den at the Appleton YMCA represent teenage belongings that probably have set many an Appleton parent wondering if their children are planning family bankruptcy.

"We've got enough stuff here to hold a rummage sale," Carl Bruno, den director, commented this week as he surveyed the pile of lost property. "Some of it has gone unclaimed for more than a year."

In an inventory of the boxes Bruno turned up six raincoats, a dozen each of swim suits, caps and mittens, two lunch buckets, a pair of swim fins and goggles, handkerchiefs, scarves, sweaters, T-shirts, tennis shoes and swim caps.

Unearth Boots
He also unearthed several boots and rubbers, mostly unmatched two uneaten sandwiches, two dozen school and library books, gym bags and left-over projects from the YMCA craft program.

Locked in a steel cabinet in Bruno's office are a dozen wallets, a couple of purses and a watch band.

"We hold the valuable items for safe-keeping and try to track down the owners," he stated, "but there are some items which have been with us for a long time."

Cites Reasons
As he sorted one of the boxes, Bruno detailed reasons for his gigantic lost-and-found pile. "You can't blame the kids too much," he declared.

"When they are from 8 to 12 years old children go through an age of forgetfulness — any parent or teacher will back me up on that."

"During the teen years their interest spans are so short they lose track of belongings as many new interests demand their attention."

"While they are making use of the den someone may suggest going out for a pizza and off they go, leaving some of their belongings behind."

"Chances are when they get home the location of the lost item can't be remembered."

Amos 'n' Andy Begin 31st Year Together

BY JINGO
Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden today begin their 40th year of partnership—their 31st as Amos 'n' Andy.

The two began producing home talent shows together in 1919. They did a black face sketch over an experimental wireless station in New Orleans in 1920.

This led to the old gag that Marconi got Amos 'n' Andy when he tuned in the first wireless.

Then came eight years on WGN, Chicago, as Sam 'n' Henry. Their contract forbade them to take the name with them if they quit the station. So, in 1928 it became Amos 'n' Andy.

Tonight on their CBS radio show, Gosden and Correll will appear as themselves and explain creation of the characters to Amos, Andy and the Kingfish.

The other day, Jingo looked forward to the annual Emmy awards. Today, he'd like to peak backward.

Miss Shirley Dinsdale, a ventriloquist, was voted the outstanding personality of 1948, the first year of the awards. She's now Mrs. Frank Layburn, Colorado Springs, Colo., and Falls Church, Va.

Milton Berle and Ed Wynn swept the awards in 1949.

Groucho Marx was top personality in 1950. The 1951 awards were practically reserved for Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar, stars of "Your Show of Shows." Jimmy Durante was top dog in 1952.

The last five years have been fiascos. The list of the winners gets so big it covers two newspaper pages.

Jingo's Jewels: Mike Wallace's interview show will end as a Saturday night feature, after April 19. It may wind up somewhere else on the ABC-TV schedule, but no decision has been made. You'll soon be seeing Sabu in a TV series based on Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book." He starred in the movie. Van Johnson, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Patty McCormack, Hermione Gingold and Gogi Grant are Jack Benny's guests Thursday night on TV's "Shower of Stars." Rick Nelson sings his latest two record hits on tonight's "Ozzie and Harriet" show. Clint "Cheyenne" Walker is threatening to quit if Warner Brothers won't star him in movies.

Shirley Temple will play Minnehaha in "Hiawatha," an upcoming tale from her storybook. They say "Cowboy," with Glenn Ford and Jack Lemmon, is about as good a western as ever was made. A producer is after Jackie Gleason to play a western medicine man and cost artist in a TV series of his own next season. Here's the ridiculous: Michael Rennie, the very British actor, is considering the starring role in a new western TV series next season.

Free Medical Program Brings Patients From More Than 33 Countries
London —(AP)—Conservative Sir Malcolm Stoddart-Scott claims a single dentist in Huddersfield has had patients from 33 countries in the past 10 years under Britain's free medical program.
Under the scheme, dental and medical service is free even to non-residents of the United Kingdom.
Sir Malcolm said the dentist's patients came from the United States, Turkey, Greece, China, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Finland, Latvia, Estonia, Iceland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Yugoslavia, Germany, Holland, Poland, Switzerland, Israel, Malta, Cyprus, Egypt, Ireland, New Zealand, Australia, Canada, South Africa, Argentina, France, Rhodesia, Ghana, Nigeria and the West Indies.
He suggested a change in the rules to make non-residents pay at least a part of the cost of treatment.

Claims John Paul Jones Was Responsible for Death of Lord Nelson

London —(AP)—Movie Director John Farrow says the father of the American navy, John Paul Jones, was responsible for the death of Lord Nelson, Britain's greatest seaman.
"If it hadn't been for Jones," said Farrow, "Nelson probably would have survived the battle of Trafalgar and lived to a ripe old age."
In London to complete the casting for a film version of the life of Jones, Farrow said it was the great American naval commander who first ordered men aloft on sailing ships to fire from the rigging.
"The French navy copied Jones' tactics," said the producer-director-writer, "and it was a French sniper firing from the top of the Redoubtable who shot Nelson."

Vote on Law For Blocking Of W. Second

Would Permit C&NW
Trains on Crossing
Up to 30 Minutes

The ordinance which will permit Chicago and North Western Railway company trains to block the W. Second street crossing up to 30 minutes will be voted upon tonight by the city council for the last time. It will be law upon publication if council approves.

Welfare and recreation committees are recommending approval because, they have said, the move will accommodate trains which the railroad is moving from its downtown depot at N. Appleton and N. Oneida streets, the city's north-south 1-way streets.

The W. Second crossing, committee men say, is relatively unimportant in comparison with N. Appleton and N. Oneida. The traffic on W. Second does not equal that on the two 1-way streets.

Two minor ordinances also will be sent the council tonight. One requires destruction of older, no-longer-important city records. The other sets grades for a host of streets.

The committee is making no recommendation on the resolution of Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings calling for fencing around private, backyard swimming pools.

Mrs. Stillings, committee chairman, said the committee wants to study the proposal further.

Bartender's licenses are being recommended for Joseph F. Haupt, Ronald Peterson, Neil Jahnke, Richard H. Milbach and George Mueller on condition they complete requirements.

A sidewalk builder's license is recommended for Winston W. Kuehnl, Shiocton, and William M. Ross is approved as new agent for the Appleton Labor Temple.

Car Dealer Collapses, In Serious Condition

Ervin H. Rohloff, 61, 1421 N. Superior street, Appleton used car dealer, is in serious condition at Appleton Memorial hospital, where he was taken this morning after collapsing at his auto sales lot on Highway 41.

He was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance service.

Ground Around a Dry Well in the back yard of Mrs. Evelyn Merholtz, Bear Creek, Wis. caving-in because of the thaw. Mrs. George Heinz, pointing, a neighbor, and Mrs. Merholtz examine the hole. When it was discovered Saturday it was about two feet long and no more than three inches wide. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Large Hole Opened by Thaw In Back of Home in Bear Creek

Bear Creek — A crescent-shaped hole has opened around a dry well in the backyard of Mrs. Evelyn Merholtz's home. When her children discovered it Saturday, Mrs. Merholtz said, it was no more than a crack, about two feet long and no more than three inches wide.

Monday the crack has opened up to a length of from eight to 10 feet, some two feet in width and up to four feet deep.

Water from thawing snow pouring down the hill in the yard apparently weakened the sandy soil causing the cave-in. The streamlet cascading into the hole was making an underground drain-off toward her home.

Mrs. Merholtz said property owners from whom she rents told her the well had not been used for about four years and that there had never been a cave-in around it before.

Mrs. Merholtz and a neighbor Monday placed a picnic table, a ladder and some saw horses as barricades around the hole. The area had been so weakened as to crumble.

A ditch to divert the water was dug away from the hole by Mrs. Merholtz. The diversion is working, although the cave-in is continuing on a small scale, she said.

Okay Boat Docks At New London

New London — The city council Tuesday night, by a 9-1 vote, authorized a contract and license to Charles Dorsey, W. Beacon avenue, for concession rights at Riverside park. Ald. Walter Fredericks was opposed.

Under terms of the agreement, Dorsey is to build restrooms for men and women which will become city property as soon as they are built. Dorsey will have charge of the restrooms as long as he operates his concession stand there.

In the event, the city decides that the restrooms should be open when Dorsey is not operating his stand, the city will be responsible for their upkeep.

Dorsey also has agreed to build 100 feet of dock space for public use. He will have charge of parking boats there. His rights also include concessions.

foods and marine supplies, excluding the sale of boats and motors.

CONSTIPATED?

New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or gripe

Most constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that loses so much moisture that its contents become so dry they block the bowel; so shrunken they fail to stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body. To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to 8-10 P.M. to stimulate colon to action; to a normal urge to purge. And, of all laxatives, only new COLONALD, possesses its great moistening capacity plus its stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so gentle it has been hospital proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONALD neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONALD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONALD, in easy-to-take tablets, today! Introductory size, only 98c, at all druggists.

KHS Teacher Wins National Science Award

Bernard L. Alberg to Give Demonstration At Denver Convention

Kaukauna — Bernard L. Alberg, in his fifth year as chemistry and general science teacher at Kaukauna High school, was notified recently he will receive a $50 award in the 1958 Science Teachers' Achievement Recognition competition.

The award will be presented in conjunction with the sixth annual national convention of the National Science Teachers association to be held next week in Denver, Colo. Alberg was also honored by being accepted to speak before the convention.

The award is one of 100 offered to science teachers from throughout the nation. Teachers compete for awards by submitting a teaching plan which they feel is a good way to instruct and create interest in class activities. Topic of Alberg's plan was "Vocational Explorations in Chemistry."

The Kaukauna instructor has made this plan a regular part of his academic program. Students are permitted to try out a wide variety of experiments in many different fields, thus becoming acquainted with pharmacy, engineering, chemical engineering, laboratory technicians and many others. Students must do extensive reading and research in conjunction with the experiments.

Topic Of Talk
Alberg will address science teachers and give a demonstration on making pulp and paper in the high school laboratory.

Bernard Alberg

His background for this topic came as a result of studies made last summer in cooperation with the Paper Institute at Lawrence college.

The Institute of Paper chemistry had devised several methods of making pulp and paper in high school laboratories after receiving inquiries from science people from throughout the country. The methods devised had to be completely different from those used in manufacturing of paper in mills because of the lack of proper facilities in high school laboratories.

The Kaukauna instructor tried out various methods during the summer months and continued his study on the matter this year in conjunction with his classroom instruction. Working with the Kaukauna students, the local high school successfully turned out small pieces of paper, very similar to that turned out by industry.

Alberg's Background
Prior to coming to Kaukauna Alberg served for three years as instructor at high schools in Shawano and Waupun. He received a B. S. degree from Wisconsin State college in Stevens Point and last year earned his Master of Arts degree from the University of Wyoming.

Alberg picked up his latter degree by attending the university for four summer sessions. He is married and the father of four children. Besides his academic activities at the school, he serves as advisor for the Camera club and the Radio club.

Appleton Teacher Will be Speaker

Kimberly — Peter Carlson, Appleton, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Kimberly Homemakers club at the high school at 7:30 Thursday night.

Carlson will talk on his experiences as an exchange teacher in England.

Cancer bandages will be wrapped at 7 o'clock and as many members as possible are asked to come and help with the work.

Kaukauna Birth

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Community hospital today reported the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Berna, 812 124 Washington street at an Park avenue, Little Chute.

The Final Examination in a Series of clinics for school children to test hearing was held at Kaukauna with Dr. J. H. Russell testing youngsters who were found to have possible hearing defects at earlier clinics. Keith Lambie is shown being tested while Mrs. Marion Freemore, county nurse, and Mrs. Viola Wochos, assistant county nurse, observe. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Disorderly Conduct in City Leads to Stiff Court Fines

Kaukauna — Three men arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace, Monday learned disorderly conduct can prove expensive in Kaukauna. The men were arrested by Kaukauna police for two different incidents.

Arthur Knott, 23, 422 W. Seventh street, Kaukauna, was fined $75 and costs and ordered to pay for a plate glass window in a tavern, broken when he was arrested. He was taken to the county jail for 30 days when he informed police he was unable to pay his fine but later was released when the money was furnished.

Knott was arrested early Monday morning after he became abusive and tried to cause trouble in a local tavern. When police attempted to remove him he pushed his foot through a plate glass in a door.

Second Violation
David Paul Zolkowski, 19, 724 Carver lane, Menasha, was fined $50 and costs for causing a disturbance at a tournament basketball game at the entrance to the high school gym. Zolkowski was arrested for

His companion, John N. DeYoung, 21, 1018 S. Kernan avenue, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs for his part in the fracas. Both men were taken to the police station once and warned by police but returned to the gym after the warning and resumed the disturbance. The arrest was made Sunday evening by an off duty police officer at the game.

Council Spends Night Studying Health and Safety of Citizens

Food Handlers, Water Hazards are Main Consideration

Kaukauna — The health and safety of Kaukauna residents was the main topic of discussion by aldermen Tuesday night.

Major item of discussion was a board of health recommendation that food handlers be required to take yearly health examinations. The board of health defined food handlers as persons who handled unpackaged foods for commercial purposes.

Third ward Ald. William Glasheen said the definition given by the board of health was far too general and favored more specific terminology. He questioned whether farmers at the "pig fair" in the city who sold apples and chickens should be required to have health examinations. He asked whether the health board felt bakery truck drivers, car hops at drive-ins, church women serving food, auxiliary units serving hamburgers at picnics and others of this sort should be required to take yearly examinations.

Glasheen spoke in favor of health examinations but only if the term food handlers was clearly defined. Members of the board of health asked the legislative committee to define the term when drawing an ordinance requiring an examination. Glasheen answered saying it was the duty of the board of health to define, not the legislative committee.

Aldermen compromised by calling a joint meeting of the board of health, legislative committee and interested citizens, to determine the definition of the term "food handlers" and to draw an ordinance.

A request from citizens on E. Eighteenth street was read, asking council members to take action to have lots in the area filled as stagnant water accumulated and created a hazard to children.

Gil Anderson, fourth ward alderman, said water in these lots sometimes reached a depth of three and four feet and it was a breeding area for mosquitoes in summer months. He said there were a large number of children playing in this area.

It was said the city was not responsible for the lots involved since they were owned by private citizens. Three residents of the area spoke of the hazards of the water and asked the council to instigate action to require property owners to fill their land.

Aldermen agreed to notify property owners of the danger to children, point out their nuisance and invite them to meet with the council in an attempt to find a solution. Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon asked the city engineer to check the area to ascertain whether city pumps could be used to alleviate the danger to children at present.

Ald. Anderson asked the board of public works to investigate the feasibility of constructing a permanent guard fence on Crooks avenue along Tenth street to keep youngsters from falling into the ravine. He said the snow fence now being used as a guard was deteriorating rapidly and was not adequate protection.

Anderson also received the backing of the council in his move to have the natural gas alleys torn up by their crews while working last summer. If streets and alleys are not put in good condition, council members authorized city crews to do the work and to bill the gas company for the repairs.

Civil Defense Michael Gerhartz, Jr., civil defense director, advised members Kaukauna would be evacuated in the event of an attack on Green Bay. He advised council members to consider purchasing an alarm system for the city and told of other civil defense projects being carried out on the national, state and local level.

The purchasing committee was authorized to advertise for bids on a new squad car and to resubmit bids on equipment for the new fire truck. It was decided to review the fire fighting equipment after it was pointed out several bidders had difficulty bidding on items specified.

In other action the council authorized a two months leave of absence with pay for the city nurse to continue her studies toward meeting requirements as a public health nurse. A 2-week vacation with pay was also authorized for the nurse. A request for street lights in the 200 and 300 blocks of Park street was referred to the utility commission with power to act.

The council went on record

Explains Trends In School Laws

Proposed Bill Would Consolidate Districts, Official Declares

A bill coming before the state legislature would centralize sparsely populated counties under a single school superintendent, Theodore Sorenson, of the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, told an Outagamie county school board convention in Appleton Tuesday afternoon.

Groups of two to three counties with few schools would be placed in one school district, he said.

There will be a stronger tendency to put small high schools in consolidated "union" districts, Sorenson declared.

He cited economy and efficiency as reasons for school consolidation.

School Buses Sorenson said a change in state law now requires operators of vehicles transporting children to school to carry uniform markings and equipment if they wish their vehicles to be identified as school buses.

School bus routes can be determined by local school boards without state approval if the route is entirely within one school district, Sorenson stated.

Sorenson reminded board members that a new state law requires school employees to take regular physical examinations. The law applies to teachers, administrative employees and maintenance personnel. He recommended that school board select one physician to administer all examinations.

favoring the establishment of a university extension center in Outagamie county, granted the American Legion use of LaFollette park from June 9 through 18 for a 3-day picnic and referred a request for the city to rent space on Second street for a public parking lot to the protection and safety committee and the finance committee.

Latest Figures Show U. S. Is in Local Recession

Unemployment Only In Specific Industries, Sections of Country

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Latest figures from the U.S. Department of Labor show that this isn't a national recession but that it is a local recession. For the vast majority of the labor areas of the country are operating under normal conditions and reveal relatively little unemployment.

Thus, for example, 149 major areas are surveyed every second month by the Department of Labor, and of these 45 now are listed as having unemployment of 6 per cent or more. A year ago there were 19 areas in that category.

In addition, there are 89 smaller areas at present with 6 per cent or more unemployed, as contrasted with 57 of the same type a year ago.
What this means is that substantial unemployment can be localized on the map. It is not nation-wide in the sense that it is affecting every city and town in the country. It is prevalent only in specific sections and particular industries.
While there are one or more unemployment areas in 27 different states, this is a normal situation in the sense that, with rare exceptions, since the close of World War II unemployment areas have dotted the nation every year, even when business and employment in other parts of the country have been described as booming and unemployment has been at a minimum.
It is this spotty condition which requires attention, and it will not be cured by remedies that propose to give extra money through tax reductions to persons who really don't need it. A case for comprehensive tax reduction — bringing down the rates for corporations as well as for individuals — can be made on the ground that receipts would be increased if tax rates become productive and stimulating. But the type of tax reduction which merely is temporary and, for example, gives withholding taxes for a few weeks, isn't going to cure the recession. It might make matters worse.

It is significant that the Department of Labor surveys on unemployment reveal the heaviest layoffs to be in textiles, machinery and machine tools, metal-fabricating plants, automobile and parts manufacturing, aircraft, railroad equipment, and many related industries.

Not enough attention has been focused on the fact that the heavy-goods industries have been slowed down because America's expansion programs have been halted. It is estimated that there may be $10 billion of private spending involved in the plans for heavy-goods expansion which were laid aside in the last two years due to credit restraints.
The need for those projects still remains. Now, with money rates eased, the next several months should see a revival in the manufacturing of heavy goods.
It has been argued that the automobile industry is the key to the present recession and that, once automobile buying is stimulated, there will be a revival in steel, coal, railroad freight and a variety of industries now adversely affected. But it is interesting to note that preliminary surveys show that people plan to buy a record number of used cars in 1958. This might indicate that the prices of the new cars are just high enough to cause hesitation by many would-be buyers who are content for the present with used cars.
A reduction of the excise taxes on autos is being advocated as one way to bring auto prices down. This undoubtedly would stimulate some sales, but it would do little good if the automobile workers union were to threaten a strike this spring of

Council Plans Work Weekends At Gardner Dam

Work weekends for men from communities in the Valley Boy Scout council are planned at the Gardner Dam camp this spring, Wallace Christensen, scout executive, said today.
The program will be headed by Philip Larnino, Clintonville, chairman of the camp maintenance committee. Weekends will be assigned to each community in the council.
Projects include plumbing and hooking up water lines, landscaping, road work, a handicraft building and a dock on Boulder lake.

Robert Rogers, Neenah, head of the conservation committee, plans a tree planting weekend at the camp, Christensen reported.
About 400 men are expected to participate in maintenance work before camp opens on June 22, he stated.

Auto Thief Emulates Tactics of Pack Rat

Moline, Ill. — An auto thief who emulates a pack rat's tactics of stealing but leaving something in return is on the loose hereabouts.
Ken Beckman reported his station wagon was stolen while parked in Moline. A farmer at Illinois City discovered his 1954 Oldsmobile was missing but that a station wagon was in its place in the farm yard. The sheriff's office determined that the station wagon was Beckman's.
Then the next day the farmer's car was found just down the street from where Beckman's station wagon was stolen.

Ship to be Scuttled With Gas Bomb Load

San Francisco — On April 16 the World War II liberty ship William C. Ralston will be loaded with 6,500 tons of army Lewisite gas cylinders and mustard gas bombs, towed out to sea and scuttled in water 2,257 fathoms deep.
The army chemical corps said "dumping the chemicals involves no danger to human beings in deep holes in the ocean in-lings or fish."

Polaris Can Launch Arms Under Water

But Admiral Cites Needs for Ordinary Weapons as Well

By Rear Admiral W. F. Raborn
Director of Special Projects,
Bureau of Ordnance, U. S. Navy

Washington — The navy's Polaris, symbol of a new and powerful combination of nuclear-powered submarines and long-range ballistic missiles, is an entirely new kind of weapon. In spite of the fact that newspapers, magazines, and television channels are full of references to "ballistic missiles," relatively few people have a clear-cut concept of the basic nature of this new weapon.

Preliminary role of all ballistic missiles is to provide a major war deterrent through a new and much faster means of delivering nuclear warheads to enemy targets at great distances — specifically, with H-bombs.

In simple terms, the ballistic missile starts out as a "guided missile," propelled by one or more rocket motors and, shortly after launching, discards all of its rockets and its guidance . . . and from then on the warhead sails through space entirely on its own, just as any projectile fired from a gun.

In the Polaris system, it is planned that launching will be from beneath the surface of the sea from a nuclear-powered submarine. Thus, in the Polaris fleet ballistic missile, when developed, the country will have a major war deterrent weapon of unique and awesome significance. It may be fired from any spot that a submerged submarine can reach . . . either close in shore or hundreds of miles out to sea.

Reach All Targets
It will be able to reach almost all enemy targets, no matter where located, on the coastline or deep inland. Its launching site cannot be known by an enemy in advance and thus minimize destruction of the missile by surprise counter-attack on the submarine with an anti-missile or by other missile defenses.

It is believed, this weapon poses a certain threat to any potential aggressor of instant, devastating, and unpreventable retaliation. It may well be this threat could exert a deterrent to aggression that could be a significant factor in preventing the outbreak of all-out war.

Another potential advantage of this system is that it will assist in "removing the bull's-eye" from this country. Ballistic missile-launching sites will always be high priority targets in an aggressor's war plan, and will attract his weapons like magnets. In this, Polaris is not an exception, but at least the magnets will be placed at sea in the vast expanse of the oceans, away from our civil population, thus, hopefully, reducing the nuclear fallout on our country.

However, in spite of all the advantages which are expected to make the Polaris a very attractive system it is not a Panacea, and its main use will be in bolstering the nation's deterrent forces to prevent all-out or total war. Aircraft carriers will continue to play a vital role in the limited type of war.

Need Other Arms
We must continue to arm for a conventional or Korean-type of war. The carrier is the naval "queen of battles" for this and is a potent force in anti-submarine warfare. It is the most versatile and powerful instrument of war yet devised for such actions.

Although the navy is very enthusiastic about Polaris and its progress, it feels it would be doing a disservice to the nation to emphasize this new and glamorous total war weapon to the point where we cannot afford the conventional-type weapons for border-type incidents. The proper distribution of funds among these systems requires the most astute judgment.

Regardless of what type of war, or where it is located, we must continue to arm our boys with the most efficient, up-to-date weapons we are

Falling Limb of Tree Kills Young Woodsman

La Crosse —(U)—Jerome J. Jacobs, 22-year-old woodsman from Marshall, was killed Monday when he was struck by a 15-foot limb of a tree he had just cut down.

The accident occurred on the Art Haase farm in the town of Burns, La Crosse county, where Jacobs had been cutting wood since last November.

Mrs. Haase found Jacobs lying unconscious in a ravine. She had gone out to look for him when he failed to come to the house for dinner. Jacobs died of a fractured skull.

Atom Planes Seen Sooner Than Believed

Chicago —(U)—Atom-powered military planes may be flying sooner than many people think, a nuclear engineer said today. But staggering technical problems remain to be solved.

A team of five engineers which has done much preliminary work on the atom plane design project for General Electric's Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion department near Cincinnati, Ohio, gave a progress report at the 1958 nuclear congress.

Dr. D. S. Selengut, a member of the ANPD team, said availability of a critical assembly for study of radiation characteristics and a large-scale computer have speeded up work on the aircraft propulsion design.

They are enabling development of "an extremely sophisticated system—that is, one which is very highly optimized in order to give the best performance possible," Dr. Selengut said.

Fraction of Time

He told the congress that development of such high performance propulsion systems in other fields has taken 20 to 30 years, but that he feels a safe, practical atomic aircraft engine will be blueprinted in a fraction of that time.

Principal problems to overcome include weight, nuclear shield, high power, materials, reactor time lags, simple con-

Speedy 'Copter In Test Stage

San Francisco —(U)—A vertical-takeoff aircraft that "could leave San Francisco with 35 to 40 passengers and be in Los Angeles in 48 minutes" is being tested and should be ready to fly next fall, Hiller helicopters reported today.

President Stanley Hiller, Jr., said the craft will have tiltwings to give it 400-mile-an-hour-plus speeds in horizontal flight.

Hiller said his company is also working on a machine to create a "controlled whirlwind" to be used on a vertical take-off plane, causing it to be

In Good Taste When Hosts Do Not Go To Church

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: When spending a weekend in someone's house, is it proper for a guest to ask the host, or hostess, to drive her to church on Sunday if they are of another denomination and do not go themselves? I mean, of course, when the guest does not have a car of her own and the church is not within walking distance.
Answer: She can ask her hosts to order a taxi for her, but she should not expect that they get up early to drive her on the one morning in the week that they can sleep late.
No Obligation
Dear Mrs. Post: Two young people were quietly married two months ago. The parents of the bridegroom are having a large reception for them within two weeks when they return to this city. Being a close friend of the bridegroom's mother I received an invitation to this reception. Am I expected to send a present?
Answer: If, because of your friendship for the groom's mother, you feel like sending a present, you do so, but there is no obligation to send one.

Aged Grandpa Has No Regrets 'The Good Old Days' are Gone

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I'm an old grandpa but I can still see well enough to read your column every day. It makes me glad I've got my sight.

The letter from the woman who was disgusted with her sons because she caught them helping their wives in the kitchen was a prize. Your answer was just right, Ann. You told her a wife who works outside the home to help bring home the bacon, has a right to expect her husband to help her fry it.

My grandfather never wash-

ed a dish in his life. He worked 16 hours a day in the fields and didn't have time to help grandma in the house. And she could have used the help, too, because she was putting in the same hours. She raised eight children, made her own bread, churned the butter and took care of cows and chickens.

There were no automatic washing machines, dryers, dish-washers air - conditioning and other labor-saving devices. Yet, those were called "the good old days." I'd like to know what was so good about 'em?—FOGEY

DEAR FOGEY: The best part of "the good old days" is that they're gone.

DEAR ANN: In your column recently you said fortune-telling was a racket. If this is true please answer a question.

I went to a high-class fortune-teller several months ago and she said she saw a cast on my leg when she gazed into the crystal ball. Her exact words were "save your money for an accident."

I didn't think too much about it, but that same week I fell down the stairs in my home and broke my leg. How do you explain this?—J.W.S.B.

Easy. Have you ever read the insurance ads? They're constantly telling people to "save for an accident," and they don't claim to have any supernatural hook - up. The law of averages says a certain number of people are going to become statistics. The projections are amazingly accurate.

That fortune-teller planted in your subconscious the notion that you were going to have an accident. You tripped yourself and helped her prediction come true. Now, will you stay away from those fakes?

DEAR ANN: We have a couple living in our neighborhood who have not been legally married so far as the neighbors know. It has been quite a few years now and several of us would like to find out how many years a couple must live together before they are considered married according to the "common law."—INTERESTED ONLOOKERS

I'm not a lawyer, but I DO give advice, and I advise you "Interested On-lookers" to look elsewhere and get interested in more constructive things. I assume all you "on-lookers" are legally married and living respectable lives, so why concern yourselves with the other couple?

Designing Woman

Bunk Beds for Boys, to Please Mother

The lofty bunk that's the bone of bedmaking can come down a peg or two, and even provide sofa seating in the daytime. The kind that does is a good solution to problems like the one Mrs. S. S. writes about. "Can you see any way that twin beds can be fitted into the room sketched on the enclosed floor plan?" she asks. "My two boys must use this bunk beds, but they'll have a larger room later where I'd prefer twins."

Twin beds would crowd the room too much, Mrs. S., but you can buy them anyway—if they'll behave as bunks for awhile. Many bunk beds are twin beds one atop the other, and some have more adaptability than that. Sketched is a new bed idea that works four ways, in the typical high bunk set-up, as twins, trundle and as daytime seating room. Set with the top bed below, the beds are easier to make. The lower one trundles out for sleeping or stays out, adding bolsters to become a long, luxurious sofa. (The 4-Way BDT Bed by Franklin Shockey, sketched at Chicago's Merchandise Mart.)

Mrs. A. R. R. "Can cafe curtains be used with Venetian blinds? Or would some other type of curtain be more attractive on my kitchen windows, which include a small one over the sink? Four glass panes are on the upper part of the entry door. The walls are greenish yellow, the cabinets are natural finished pine and the linoleum floor has a Pennsylvania Dutch flower in a tile block pattern, with tan predominating.

If you feel that curtains would improve the appearance of the windows, the cafe type could be used. A narrow stripe in white and one of the brighter colors from the flowers in the floor covering, or white and a deeper, brighter shade of the yellow green would be smart. Rod and rings hanging to repeat the cafe curtains could be used for curtains on the door, but it may be better to omit curtains there to let in light.

Mrs. J.B. "A small hall in our new home leads from the living-dining room to the two bedrooms. Should its walls be painted the pale gold of the living-dining room walls, or should they be white because white will be used in the color schemes of both bedrooms?" Much depends on how plain-

Mental Illness Requires Both Sympathy, Professional Care

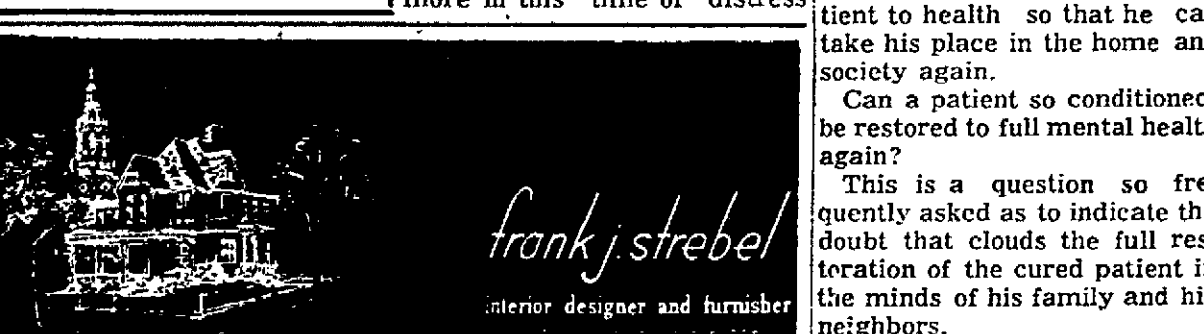

BY ANGELO PATRI

Mind is the partner of the body, the senior partner. It is the mind that gives direction to the body so that it moves with purpose, supplied by it alone. It is the mind that puts meaning and beauty into life, not the body. It is plain then that when the mind falls sick the body loses power and life its meaning. Such an illness is a catastrophe, one that deserves the greatest sympathy, the quickest and most adequate help possible. The attitude of the people close to the mentally ill patient must first be understanding. The condition of the patient must be recognized as illness, not a disgraceful state to be covered up and the patient hidden away. Such a patient needs the love that is all supporting more in this time of distress than at any other time in his life. Too often it fails him. There are many degrees of mental illness, some of them acute, some soon cured, all in need of immediate professional care. It is often necessary for the sake of the patient who will receive better care, and for his family who will be relieved of great anxiety, to remove the patient to a hospital, nursing home, or perhaps a rest home. A change of routine, absence from the pressures that either produced the illness or accentuated the factors that contributed to it, can be of tremendous value in restoring the patient to health so that he can take his place in the home and society again.

Can a patient so conditioned, be restored to full mental health again? This is a question so frequently asked as to indicate the doubt that clouds the full restoration of the cured patient in the minds of his family and his neighbors. Many have been completely cured; some cannot be wholly cured but can take some share of responsibility in their homes, sometimes in their accustomed place in trade, profession or industry. This must depend on the kind of illness that has befallen him and the degree of cure.

Professional Care

What all of us must keep in mind is the great need for professional care for these patients. The great need to educate people to understand this need and provide for it is pressing upon us more and more as the cases multiply. Beginning with the schools we need special classes for the mentally disturbed children and highly trained teachers for them. We need hospitals planned and staffed for efficiency in treating the patients so they can be restored to society as well, effective people. We need more understanding about such patients. Society must supply these pressing needs.

Earth Cover Will Stop 'Sweating'

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Question: The concrete slab ceiling over our fruit cellar sweats badly in the winter. The cellar is under our porch. Is there any way to prevent the sweating?

Answer: If there is space under the porch, cover the concrete slab with about a foot of earth, extending it well beyond the edges of the slab. In addition, it may be necessary to cover the ceiling with an insulating blanket or insulating wallboard. Wallboard would be easier to handle because it can be glued into place; but it will not have as much insulating value as the thicker blanket.

Drafty Stairway

Question: We converted our attic into a bedroom and bathroom. There is an open stairway leading up to this floor. There always seems to be a cold draft coming down. Is there any remedy for this? The upstairs is now heated and seems well ventilated.

Answer: There is no sure solution for such a problem. The movement of air could be slowed down by trying to equalize the temperature of the upstairs rooms with those downstairs.

Loosened Veneer

Question: The veneer covering the doors on a cedar wardrobe has loosened and bulged out in parts. Is there any way which I can repair this?

Answer: Remove the doors, as it is easier to work on a horizontal surface. Place them on a work table, or across wooden horses. If the bulges are small, place a damp cloth over them and then apply a hot iron; this will often reduce the bulge. If the bulged areas are large, make incision with sharp knife. Then force glue under the veneer, at each side of the slit, placing heavy weights on top afterwards. Allow weights to remain until glue is thoroughly hardened.

Youngster Happy, He's Got Sharks in Bathtub

San Francisco — Victor Balibrea, aged 8, has never been happier. He has three sharks in his bathtub.

Victor caught a 30-inch sand shark alive off the Ft. Mason pier Monday, and persuaded his father, Joseph, to let him take it home along with some sea water to make it comfortable.

The shark died that night, but not until it had given birth to three babies.

Victor says Poky, Tarzan and Skipper are doing fine on a diet of bread crumbs. After they get a "little bigger and stronger" he plans to give them to Steinhart aquarium.

St. Louis Voters Impose Big School Tax Increase on Themselves

St. Louis — St. Louis voters Tuesday imposed a 21-cent school tax increase on themselves.

In a heavier than usual turnout for a special election, 59,437 St. Louisans voted for the tax increase, and 35,072 against it. Only a simple majority was needed to pass the issue. The new tax rate will be $1.51 for $100 assessed property valuation. Sponsors of the proposal, headed by the citizens school tax campaign committee, estimated the tax boost will increase school revenue by $3,400,000 a year.

School Supt. Philip J. Hickey said the new funds will be used to meet teacher salaries and step up postponed building maintenance.

Culbertson on Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

One of the questions asked most frequently by average players is: What are the mental processes of the expert as he plans and executes the play of a hand?

Well, let's sit behind South in the following deal.

H-8 5 2
D-J 10 8 6 2
C-4

WEST EAST
S-9 8 H-10 4 2
N-Q 10 H-K 6 4 3
D-A 9 7 4 D-K 5
C-K 10 9 6 3 C-J 8 7 5

SOUTH
S-K Q J 5
H-A J 9 7
D-Q 3
C-A Q 2

The bidding (rubber bridge):

South West North East

1 S Pass 2 S Pass

4 S Pass Pass Pass

This auction would be far too simple and direct for some schools of experts—those which seem to have an almost voodooistic veneration for all-around-the-mulberry-bush bidding—but it was logical and sound in all respects.

West elected to lead the nine of trumps rather than guess among the other three suits. South won in his own hand and, seeing the desirability of setting up the diamond suit, laid down the diamond queen. East took this with the king and shifted to the three of hearts. South ducked, of course, hoping that West would have to win with a high honor, but West actually won with the ten and then continued with the queen of hearts. South won with the ace—and he had reached the crossroads.

With two tricks already lost and another diamond a sure loser, the burning question came to this: Should South go ahead with his diamond-establishing plan, which would expose him to the loss of another heart trick; or should he lead to the trump ace and try for the club finesse? If the club queen held, he could throw dummy's remaining heart on the club ace.

Due thought, however, made declarer reject the club-finesse plan. For one thing, it was significant that West had opened a trump—this always suggests an attempt to protect side-suit honors. For another, even if the club king was on-side, South would be far from home—it would be a complicated process, and one needing plenty of luck, to handle the rest of the play with only the loss of a diamond trick.

Conversely, if West had the outstanding high diamond and didn't have another heart—a very fair prospect—South would be on the home stretch by leading the diamond three.

So South chose the diamond lead—and whether West put up the ace or ducked, the defensive guns were spiked.

More Potatoes, Corn, Tobacco Set for State

Washington — The U.S. department of agriculture said Tuesday that Wisconsin farmers have indicated they will plant more acres in corn, tobacco and potatoes in 1958. Forecasts indicate a smaller planting in oats.

Figures based on planting intentions showed for the state: Corn, 2,744,000 acres, or 101 per cent of the 1957 total. Potatoes, 50,000 acres, or 102 per cent. Tobacco, 11,800 acres, or 102 per cent. Oats, 2,709,000 or 98 per cent. Figures were not available for other Wisconsin crops.

Busy Robber Killed By Fourth Victim

Chicago — A 30-year-old robber, who police said held up four south side stores last night in 20 minutes, was shot fatally by his fourth victim as he fled from the store.

Police identified the man as Elmer Rogers, who died in a hospital of a bullet wound in the head. He was shot by Robert Carlsky, a part owner of a drug store, who told police he was robbed of $113 by the gunman. He said after the robber was leaving he drew a pistol from under the counter and fired.

Dismiss Four Charges Against Shiocton Youth

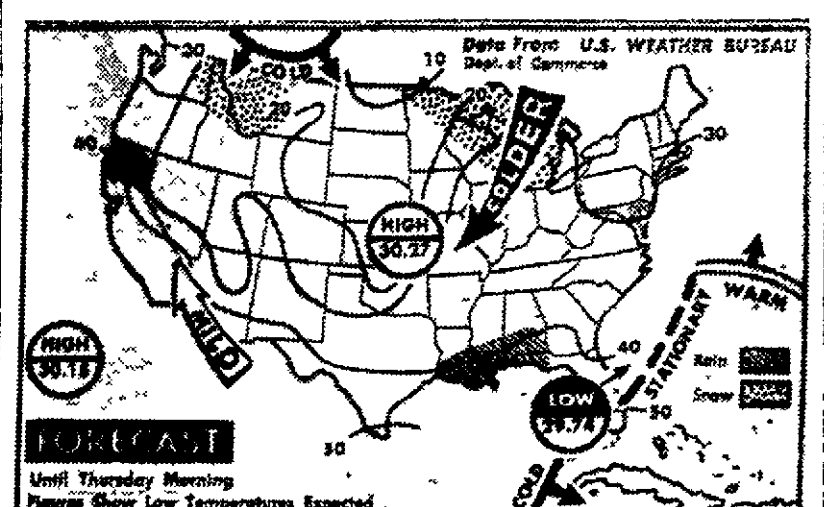

Four charges stemming from the arrest last November of Clarence Fields, 18, route 2, Shiocton, by conservation wardens were dismissed Tuesday in municipal court.

Dist. Atty. George Greisch told Judge Oscar J. Schmiede he had conferred with Conservation Warden Charles Wranosky, the complainant, and that the state had agreed not to prosecute the case.

Fields was charged with possession of a light for shining deer, carrying a loaded gun in his car, failing to stop for an emergency vehicle and contributing to the delinquency of a minor boy.

Fields Nov. 28 posted $200 bond for trial March 26, but the trial date was changed by Greisch.

Fresh Snow Covers Parts Of Wisconsin

A fresh snowfall blanketed parts of Wisconsin today on the last full day of winter. Officially, spring begins at 9:06 Thursday night, but light snow and snow flurries were expected to continue today and tonight.

The Milwaukee and Park Falls area received the largest amount of snow. Southwestern Milwaukee county was under a 2-inch cover of new snow today. In most other areas the snow was melting as soon as it hit the ground.

There were local snow flurries in areas around the Fox Cities Tuesday, but the Wisconsin Michigan Power company in Appleton had no measurable precipitation.

Temperatures held to about the same levels as those reported for the last several days. Appleton had 31 for an overnight low following a high of 42 Tuesday. The temperature at

Three Request Skenandore to Take Leave

But Brown County Sheriff Says He Has No Intent to Do So

Green Bay — Three Brown county supervisors Tuesday suggested that Sheriff Artley Skenandore take a leave of absence pending an investigation into misconduct charges, but the sheriff indicated he had no intention of doing so.

Francis Leanna, who made the charges against Skenandore, was one of the signers of the resolution which was referred to the county board's advisory committee.

The resolution would put the board on record as "desiring" that Skenandore voluntarily take leave of absence until the special investigator appointed by Gov. Thomson completes his inquiry and makes a recommendation.

Probe Hasn't Begun
The investigator, former FBI agent Frank Larkin, has been tied up with the trial of former Sheriff Mike Lombardi at Waukesha, and hasn't started work here.

The county board also received and referred to the advisory committee another resolution that would turn over to Larkin the minutes of closed meetings of the board's protection committee on charges of misconduct against Traffic Chief Clarence Grognet. The minutes, on orders of the board, have been locked up in the county clerk's office. Grognet resigned during the course of the meetings.

Reached at Wausau
Skenandore, reached at Wausau where he is attending an FBI fingerprint school, indicated he had no intention of taking a leave of absence.

Regarding the use of the secret minutes of the Grognet hearings, Skenandore said he hadn't attended them and therefore would have nothing to say.

Larkin is not expected to arrive until next week.

Restraining Order Issued, Picketing Still Goes on

A temporary court order to halt picketing of a motel being built on Highway 125 about half a mile from Highway 41 was served on Laborer's Local 931 Tuesday.

However, pickets continued on the premises as members of the carpenter's local picked up the signs. Construction work is being done for Landis Designs and Builders, Inc., by Donald Biggers.

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell set Friday for a hearing on why the temporary order should not be made permanent.

Pickets appeared on the $70,000 project last week. Wilbur Raatz, business agent for the laborer's union, said Biggers had agreed to sign a contract with the local, then did not.

Biggers lives in Black River Falls and formerly lived in Iowa. He brought a labor crew from Iowa to work on the motel, union men said.

Construction on the 10-unit motel is in the foundation stage.

Speakers Contend More Rigid Requirements Needed on High School Levels Today

Educational standards in the United States are lower than in other countries but encouraging trends are being observed, a panel of educators and parents agreed at a Morgan school Parent-Teacher association meeting.

It was strongly recommended, as one means of alleviating the situation, that more rigid requirements be set up on the high school level so students entering college won't have to take remedial courses in subjects with which they should be familiar.

Speakers were Dean Marshall Hulbert of Lawrence college; John P. Mann, superintendent of schools; Dean Caswell, a Morgan school teacher; parent; and Mrs. Willis Van Horn, a vice president of the Wisconsin PTA congress. Nick Karras was moderator.

Citing Russia's educational system, Hulbert contended that although pupils there achieve more in their 10-year course of study than U. S. pupils do in 12 years, Russian schools are controlled by the government and therefore less flexible.

Quality Important

"We should do more to complete general education in high schools," he stated. "Quality rather than quantity is the important thing in the educational enterprise. . . . We are spending too much valuable time during early college years teaching remedial English, mathematics and other basic subjects which should have been mastered in high school."

Mann noted that although educators are not confined to federally-set limits, standards are attained through the use of achievement and intelligence tests. He stated the most important standard is created by a child's capacity and teachers should not motivate the pupil to work up to that capacity.

Too many brilliant minds are leaving the teaching profession, he went on, because "salaries are too low, the social status of a teacher is not as high as in business, and business pays better."

Elementary German

Mrs. Malmstrom asserted Appleton is fortunate in having a system which begins teaching French on the elementary level and which offers four years of high school mathematics. However, she recommended that German instruction also be initiated on the grade school level.

Touching on discipline, Caswell stated busy, interested children are not a problem. The present philosophy is prevention rather than punishment, he went on, and "children should be encouraged to set up their own code of ethics."

Mrs. Van Horn spoke on re-state penitentiary crews may be assigned to some of the construction tasks.

The welfare department has been approved for a $2,500,000 mission, which Schmidt estimates will provide at least half of the medium security prison ultimately planned. The institution would be enlarged at a later stage. It would be built on a state prison farm site near the state penitentiary in Waukegan.

The four will represent the high school at the district forensic contest at Stevens Point March 29.

Anne Jones Publishes French Book

Collaborates With Another Editor for New Language Text

A book of French readings edited by Miss Anne Jones, professor of French at Lawrence college, and Germaine Bree, head of New York university department of romance languages, has come from the press this week. Its title is "Hier et Aujourd'hui."

The Ronald Press of New York City is publisher. The book, designed for second or third semester college French courses, contains 16 examples of good short French writing, including several poems and a previously unpublished short story. They span the years from the middle ages to the present.

The work was in preparation last year and went to the press in July. The collaborators worked separately in New York and Appleton, with an occasional vacation-time conference. List Neuman, 609 N. Lawrence street, a Lawrence college junior, assisted in the preparation of the vocabulary index.

All of the selections in "Hier et Aujourd'hui" are presented unedited, except in the case of one modern piece, too long to run in its entirety, and two selections written in medieval French which have been translated into modern French.

Born in France Miss Bree was born in France and studied there and at Bryn Mawr where she taught from 1936-53. Since the latter year she has been chairman.

Hearing Set On Highway 41 Relocation

A public hearing on the proposed relocation of Highway 41 north of Appleton will be at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, April 10, at Outagamie county courthouse.

The state highway commission in letters to municipal officials of the county today said it proposes to relocate a section more than five miles in length.

The section is roughly three-fourths of a mile north of the present Highway 41 and would replace the roadway between a point about a half mile north of Highway 10 and County Trunk JJ.

The present Highway 41 section would be abandoned by the state and revert to the county or municipalities within which it lies.

first of the French department, and now of the whole department of romance languages at New York university. She is the author of several books, one of them a study of Proust.

Miss Jones has been on the Lawrence faculty since 1937, where she is now chairman of the modern language department, and former chairman of the freshman studies course. She was graduated from the University of Illinois, where her father, Dr. H. S. V. Jones, was an eminent scholar in English literature.

She has done graduate work at the Sorbonne, Columbia university, and the University of Munich. Miss Jones has lived in France, the most recent time in 1953-54 when she studied on a fellowship grant from the Ford foundation.

The Lawrence professor is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, is listed in "Who's Who in the Middle West" and has acted in an executive capacity in several professional organizations, that full restitution had been made to Ron's Cities Service, 545 N. Oneida street.

Fremont Man Hurt As 2 Cars Crash

Thomas Pitt, 32, Fremont, received a concussion and a hip injury shortly before noon Tuesday when his car collided with another at Highways 10 and 41.

Driver of the other car, Stanley May, 63, 10211 N. Drew street, received an injured left hand. Neither driver was injured seriously, although Pitt was taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Larry's ambulance.

County police said Pitt was westbound on Highway 10, May northbound on 41. It was impossible to determine which car had the traffic signal right-of-way, police said. Pitt's car travelled 170 feet into the ditch after the collision.

Brother Renews Vows With Salvatorians

Brother John Martzahl, SDS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Martzahl, route 3, Appleton, renewed his religious vows as a Salvatorian brother for one year today. The ceremony took place at the Salvatorian novitiate, Colfax, Iowa.

The Society of the Divine Savior is a religious order composed of priests and brothers. The brothers engage in manual labors in the society's houses in the country and foreign missions. Each brother must take 1-year vows three times and then take them for a 2-year period before making them perpetually.

Brother John entered the society in 1954 and made his postulancy at St. Nazianz. He made his novitiate at Colfax where he now is head of maintenance.

POST-CRESCENT News of the TWIN CITIES Menasha - Neenah

Menasha Council Reaffirms Stand On Wage Increase

Adopt Resolution Against Teacher Salary Boost; Hold Secret Meeting

Menasha — A resolution reaffirming the council's stand that it "does not now approve and never has approved an additional 2 1/2 per cent salary increase given to teachers by the school board" was unanimously passed by the aldermen Tuesday night.

The action came after the council had met in secret, or executive session, for 25 minutes. Mayor R. G. DuCharme called the secret session, the first in the two years he has served as mayor.

The resolution also stated the council "approved of the school board minutes containing references to the 2 1/2 per cent increase only because it has no control over the board's authorizing the increase as the increase was given out of funds budgeted to the board for other purposes in 1958."

Refuses To Comment

Mayor DuCharme refused to comment on what was said during the secret meeting. He stated the above resolution might have been discussed and adopted "along with a number of other things."

Earlier in the regular council meeting, the aldermen approved school board minutes of March 1 which contained a paragraph saying the board issued contracts for the 1958-59 school year on the basis of the

Broad Street Meters Take in $2.25 Weekly, Menasha Council Told

Ald. John Klein Says Operating 60 Devices
Is Bad Business Venture, Just Deadweight

Menasha — Menasha has been receiving an average of $2.25 a week from 60 parking

Klein

Broad street, Coughlin stated, there would be room for customer parking in the back of the stores.

Coughlin noted the meters were still on a one year trial basis and a thorough study is being made in connection with the use of the devices. He pointed out money derived from the meters will be used to clean up and resurface city parking lots.

The council also placed a two-hour parking limit on Garfield avenue from Railroad street west to the Soo Line railroad tracks.

Playground signs will be placed on all streets leading to the playgrounds located near the sewage-disposal plant on Garfield avenue.

City Engineer Melvin Noth and Police Chief Peter Clark were instructed to study the problem of removing or relocating parking meters at the Dorow lot location on Tayco street so access can be made to the lot for customer parking.

Wheel, Tire Found

Menasha — Anyone missing an automobile wheel and tire, size 670-15 and in good condition, can claim it at the Menasha police station, Chief Peter Clark said today. The inflated tire and wheel were found floating in the Fox river below the Racine street bridge on Tuesday.

Talks to Optimists

Cane Outlines Divorce, Marriage Law Study by 15-Member Committee

Cane

The most important work of the committee, however, the Menasha assemblyman believes, is in the field of preserving existing marriages. By the time the parties to the marriage reach a lawyer's office or the divorce court, it usually is too late to take effective steps to save the marriage.

Something ought to be done before the marriage has reached such a state that one of the parties is determined to seek a divorce. Cane told the Optimists club. Counseling services, outside the church, are hopelessly inadequate, he said.

"While most churches offer excellent marriage counseling services, a high percentage of people thinking about divorce won't take advantage of the counseling services, or have reached a point where their religion means nothing to them."

He cited some of the suggestions made, such as a 60-day "cooling off" period where intensive efforts would be made to preserve the marriage. Illinois has such a law but the results are not known, Cane stated.

Suggests Course

The assemblyman advocated that something be done in the field of education, suggesting courses on a high school level on marriage that would emphasize avoiding the pitfalls in marriage. Colleges offer fine courses on marriage but only a minority of the people attend college, he cited.

"No one idea will be a 'one-size-fits-all' solution, but we must have a variety of approaches," he said.

Chamber Again Pleads for Long Range Survey

'Avoid Errors With Good Planning,' Designer Quoted

Neenah — Another plea for a long range plan for city needs, to be carried out before a police station is constructed, was issued today by Leon Tolversen, chairman of the Neenah community planning committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Tolversen quoted Herbert Bayer, Aspen, Colo., artist and designer, as saying "planning or looking ahead on a city or county level makes just as much sense as it does to plan a business, vacation or our children's education."

The committee has been opposing a city council plan to build the new police station at E. Doty avenue and Walnut street before such a long range survey is completed. Neenah voters will approve or disapprove of the council plan in a referendum April 1 on the bond issue for financing the new station.

In his letter to Tolversen, Bayer said, "decisions which affect the future of your community are made every day by individuals, business companies, public officials or other groups without the benefit and knowledge of overall community objectives. These actions can become haphazard and costly developments. With good planning, you will avoid errors, you will create a community with more benefits for your citizens."

Bayer also told the chamber committee head that, "only by getting wide-spread local suggestions and criticisms can valuable results be produced. Interest and action in the plan must then be continuing if the objectives are to be realized."

Neenah Woman, Son Injured in Crash

The injured were taken to Theda Clark hospital in the Neenah ambulance. The front of the Nickolas' car, which was going east on Cleveland, and the right side of Gidlof's auto, going south on Zemlock, were damaged.

K-C Plans Doubling Connecticut Plant

Neenah — Contracts have been awarded to double the capacity of the new Kimberly-Clark corporation plant at New Milford, Conn. John R. Kimberly, president and chairman of the board, announced today.

Necessitated by increasing demand for the company's consumer sanitary products, plans include the installation of a second multi-million dollar crepe wadding machine and the construction of a new 200,000 square foot warehouse.

Red Top Shade; White Trims Many High Style Models

If your shoes were painted on your feet, they couldn't be brighter or prettier this spring. Many of the rich, imaginative colors to be shown this season will be at their most brilliant with the extra depth which leather gives them.

Red, of course, is the most talked-of among the new vivid colors and leather is favored this spring as the most beautiful way to see red.

Probably the newest of the leather reds is one with a hint of coral that makes it as bright as a flying spark. There is an outburst of this red in patent as well as smooth and suede leather, the Leather Industries of America reports.

Favor Azure Blue

Next to red in popularity will be an azure blue leather. It will be seen either alone, accented neatly with white, or in the famous tricolor: red, white and blue.

White leather, both textured and smooth, will also be used to set off bright orange and green in two-color shoes. And many one-color bright shoes will be accented with washable white leather soles.

There will be a whole group of exotic bright leathers including pueblo yellow, turquoise, Caribbean pink, petunia, tropical orange, salad green, raspberry and shrump. A new melon golden olive and a linden green, the color of the linden tree's leaves, are also exciting.

White Trim Seen

Sometimes these bright leathers will be made even brighter by a trim and neat sole of washable white leather. And bright leather linings will be of match or contrast with the outside of the shoe.

Traditional navy, as much a part of spring as the robin, will bloom this year in a spanking bright new shade.

Neutrals will be given new interest. Beiges, for instance, will be newest in very light

Chic Leisure Shoes Bloom Like Flowers of Spring

For the suburban housewife and the career girl alike, spring means more leisure time—more time spent in outdoor pursuits and in casual lounging.

It would be pretty silly to wear a cocktail dress in a hammock or on a hike. And it would be equally silly to wear beautiful dress or business shoes with the smart sport and leisure clothes most women have in their wardrobes.

A smart woman's shoe wardrobe, therefore, should provide her with the right shoes to give her chic good looks and luxurious comfort that go with leisure-time clothes.

The choice has never been bigger or more exciting, according to the National Shoe Institute.

New and different this spring are warm-weather sandals—open, colorful and cool.

Especially interesting are the new thong sandals, on a variety of heel heights.

Flat heels and little heels, in wedges and regular styles, are offered in a multitude of gay fabrics and in brightly hued or subtly tinted leathers in stripes, prints, and solids.

All-closed casual shoes, with the same wide choice of heels, are slim, trim, and very smart this spring. Basic styles have been enhanced through the use of unique materials and colors. Others carry pert decorator touches.

All in all, let a girl name it and she can have it in her shoe wardrobe this spring.

No Doubt About It! Fashion for Spring Has Basic Chemise Look

Colors Inspired by Tropic Paradise, Tailoring, Detail Work Featured

BY PATRICIA SCHULTZ
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A basic chemise line borrowed from the twenties, colors inspired by tempting fruit in a tropical paradise and meticulous tailoring and detail work added by imaginative designers are combined to form the new look in the spring fashion scene.

The costume of the flappers, the chemise or sack dress, has been modified and softened with feminine details for the 1958 version. Reminiscent of the era are the undefined and in some cases non-existent waistlines and the knee-hugging skirts. Fifteen to sixteen inches from the floor is desirable for the majority of the new styles. For the timid, belts are available with many of the chemise dresses.

Bursts of blooms are seen from flower-laden hats to floral bouquets on footwear. Sometimes the blossoms are hidden from the eye, such as the printed linings of plain-colored shoes or the flower garden blooming on chemise style lingerie. Geraniums tested in green pots are sprinkled over the water-repellent white fabric of raincoats. Clusters of violets decorate silk and chiffon blouses and tiny rosebuds are tacked on the end of ribbon streams decorating sailor-type hats.

The timeless casual beauty of Chanel suits has inspired styles of lesser-known designers in their loose fitting jackets, open cut necklines and variety of soft-to-touch fabrics. Suit waistlines seem to end at the thigh of the designer, some above the waist, other nipping the waist with a belt and some cut on two levels, high in front and gently dipping in the back.

To balance the unadorned straight lines of the chemise dress, the frills and feathers, ribbons and ruffles have been reserved to decorate the spring array of hats. Rollers, sailor-types, cartwheels and cloche styles have been fashioned to wear with the new look. Some of the "slouch" hats feature single large blossoms, a row of red roses encircle the rim of a cartwheel and some of the cloches are completely covered with tiny buds.

Coats, too, have assumed a new shape in their tapering silhouette, their cocoon fullness in the back and the shorter hemlines. A freedom of movement seems to have been incorporated in all of the garments even those with belts hung low on the hips are loose and suggest an ease of motion.

Accessories, striking in simplicity, have been geared to match the newest spring look. Slim, long handbags with a minimum of ornament and a maximum of style, are featured for wear with the chemise. The quality of the purses' materials has assumed added importance with the finest of leathers, suedes and fabrics being used.

Color seems to be vying for the fashion limelight, for its vividness and startling combinations are everywhere on the spring scene. Shades long regarded as uncombineable have joined forces and are used with abandon in most of the fashions. Orange and pinks, blues and greens have been mixed with tone variations for pleasing results.

Some of the newer strides with color are observed below the hemline. Stockings in blues, greens, blacks and even red, available in different shades of each color, add further emphasis to the showing of more "leg." The monochromatic look is particularly adaptable with the chemise dress.

Shoes appear with new brilliance. The basic blacks, browns and navies are taking a back-seat to the kaleidoscope of hues being shown on shoe counters. Melon, orange, polka dots, stripes, big checks and prints are shown in the pointed toe footwear.

Production Staff Selected for Play

Menasha — A production staff of 16 Menasha High school students for the Jay player presentation of "Maudie and the Opposite Sex" was named today by Dalton Schoening, director. The comedy will be enacted on Tuesday, April 29.

Included on the staff are Keith Bednarowski, business manager; Jim Cronin, stage manager; Janice Stevenson, Barbara Griesbach, JoAnn Harold and Charlotte Theissen, make-up; Diane Weisgerber, property mistress, and Gary Ashenbrenner, property manager.

Other staff members are Joan Martinson and Randy Wojohn, publicity; Judy Protheroe, Beverly Fritz and "Mac" Fredrikson, prompters; John Killa, sound effects; Sue Woods programs, and Alan Stachowicz lighting.

Orange and Gold Predominate in the multi-colored chemise dress worn by Miss Sharon Stecker. The straight line of the chemise is further emphasized by the row of covered buttons from shoulder to hemline. In true "flapper" fashion, Miss Stecker wears a long chain of beads and an up-turned brim hat. (Post-Crescent Photo)

3 More Lots Annexed By Menasha Aldermen

Land Located in Grove Subdivision; Farthest
North City Has Taken in Territory, Giese Says

Menasha — Three more lots were annexed by the Menasha council Tuesday night. They are owned by Donald Buss and located at London and Ninth streets in the Grove subdivision.

City Atty. William R. Giese pointed out this was the farthest north the city has ever annexed any property. Two weeks ago the council annexed 10 lots between DePere and Appleton streets owned by John Noffke. Frank Ryan and Alexander Konkol were hired as bridge-tenders with Edward Jedwabny as substitute.

The aldermen authorized "no" parking signs on the south side of Water street at the approach to the old Mill street bridge.

Aldermen accepted the house renumbering committee's recommendation that the name of Emily street not be changed and a beverage operators license was issued to Edward Maloney, 332 Garfield avenue. A final payment of $2,828 was made to the Gray-Robinson Construction company of Manitowoc for storm and sanitary sewer work done in the city last summer.

The next council meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 2, instead of Tuesday, April 1, which is election day. A committee of the whole meeting will take place on Monday, March 31.

Amvets Auxiliary To Distribute Code For Child Survival

The distribution is part of a nation-wide project of the auxiliary and the code enumerates 10 points of conduct for personal safety. Copies of the code have been left at the central school and in towns of Rushford and Poygan.

They also are being distributed at five schools in the Neenah-Menasha area, the Oromo public schools and at the Winchester, Mathison, Pingry and Butte des Morts schools.

Women Should Check Quality In Helping Men Buy Clothes

Millions of women have "double vision" about men's fashions these days, says a leading style expert. They get this way, it was said, by keeping one eye on a man's good dress and the other on the inflated family budget.

It is this double concern of woman in helping their men obtain full value in both looks and money from their clothing purchases that has made quality tailoring again of top importance as far as a suit of clothes is concerned, according to the need of a major men's clothing firm.

Every woman who lends a helping hand to a man in his clothing purchases today should know what quality standards her man is entitled to for his money and how to recognize them.

Seven Points
A suit costing $65 or over should have at least seven quality tailoring points, he said. Many of these points are difficult to confirm in looking at a suit, he admitted.

One way to check them is to ask the retailer. Looking for information good manufacturers put in pocket stuffers is another, he said. Another way is to stick to brand merchandise; the most costly way to learn is by sad experience. A popular-priced suit that does not have the necessary quality tailoring points will not perform properly, he said.

Here are the quality check points he sets for fine clothing: First, cold water shrinking to "zero" of all suiting fabrics. Suits that change their size in cleaning have not had this costly, important quality treatment, he explained.

Two-ply fabric is another quality point, he said. This fabric requires less pressing and will hold its shape better. A top quality hair "front" is an absolute must in a fine suit. To test a "front," which is a special lining in the chest of the suit jacket, squeeze the front of the suit tightly, he suggested. If it springs back into shape quickly, he said, it contains a top quality "front." A suit with an inferior quality "front" will lose its shape, its form and "cave in" after cleaning, the expert said.

Set on Collar
A collar that is "set on" and sewn by hand is a quality feature that spells fine fit for the life of the suit, he explained. Roll a suit collar gently. If it rolls back into shape easily it has been set on by hand, he said. He explained this means it will lie snug and smooth despite many dry cleanings and long wear.

Sleeve linings at each end should be stitched by hand, buttonholes on the coat should be evenly and closely stitched by hand to give long wear and trousers should be unpicked at the crotch, he concluded.

A knowledge of these check points of quality tailoring can save many a heartache. The eagle-eyed little woman, with her shopping psychology already geared to quality shopping in other items, can be a big help to a man in checking the "value" of his clothing purchases, he said.

No Radical Changes Mark Men's Fashions

Stripes in Suits, Shorter Topcoats Gaining in Popularity for Spring Wear

Men may not have as radical a change in style as the "sack" or "chemise" look to distinguish this year's trend in clothes but they can point to several changes over previous years' fashions.

Topcoats on the market this year are a bit shorter than before, largely because of the impact of the car coat popularity on the male population. Notched collars are being introduced more and more on the top coats.

Springtime often brings out the gay colors but in men's fashions the change usually is marked with an edging to somewhat lighter shades. Medium tones and darker shades still will be popular for both suits and overcoats.

Stripes Popular
Returning to the forefront as a style leader are stripes in men's suits. The new fashions are featuring both the fine stripes and the tone on tone stripes. Patterned plaids are another popular design for suits.

Gardner continues as a popular buy in both the suit and the topcoat and tweeds disappear somewhat with the warmer weather. The all-wool sports coat also gets considerable wear during the spring and summer months, though it may be of lighter weight than its fall and winter counterpart.

Stripes and button-down collars are being offered in shirts although the stripes are of a more subtle style this year. Narrow ties are remaining as the leader in that fashion.

Ability to Sew Gives Value to Fashion Dollar

Proper Choice of Materials Aids Finished Product

This season the woman who sews will find herself with more than her share of fashion for her spring wardrobe dollar.

Some of the prettiest styles are found in patterns which should be selected carefully and measurements taken accurately to insure perfect fit. In general, patterns with the simplest lines and fewest details are the smartest, give the best fit and are easiest to construct.

Care should be given in choosing materials. Pattern booklets available in most yard goods departments and sewing magazines provide hints on how to coordinate the right fabric and print with the pattern. And this is one shopping area in which it is advisable to buy the best quality possible, for inferior yardage is easily spotted by poor fit and endurance.

Coordinated ensembles are a wise choice for spring seamstresses. A straight coat made from a pure linen and lined in a bright silk print will be the constant companion for two chemise dresses, one made of the linen and one in the silk fabric. Accessories of a plain shade or a contrasting color will complete the outfit beautifully.

Shirtwaist Look
The shirtwaist look in patterns can be interpreted in either the classic, full-skirted style or the chemise look, featuring a button-down front and shirt collar. A snappy choice for spring, the shirtwaist looks well in a surah print lined with peltone to give body to the soft material.

Younger members of the family will be just as well dressed this spring as their mothers who sew. Tiny cotton prints make pretty and practical dresses styled with gathered skirts and tie sashes and bright rick-racks are often used for trim. Dacron and cotton blends are easy to work with and easily withstand the wear and tear put on them by fashion-conscious young ladies.

Two Menasha Drivers Fined $35, Costs for Traffic Violations

Menasha — Two Menasha drivers admitted traffic violations and were fined a total of $35 and costs in Menasha police court Monday morning.

Richard E. Farr, 21, route 2, pleaded guilty of speeding 40 miles an hour on Washington street at 1:10 Sunday morning and was fined $15 and costs by Police Justice Arthur Ales.

Arlyn C. Kloeppel, 18, route 2, pleaded guilty of failing to have his car under control at 11:15 Saturday night on Tayco street and was fined $20 and costs.

The car Kloeppel was driving struck a parked car owned by Woodward W. Belau, 45, 946 Second street, in the 300 block on Tayco street. Kloeppel and a passenger in his car, Roger Hoffman, 22, 713 Paris street, were slightly injured and were taken to Theda Clark hospital in the Neenah ambulance.

Hulda Pedersen

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh — Wills of three Twin City women were admitted to probate Tuesday by County Judge Herbert J. Mueller. They were the wills of the late Adele H. Hine of Menasha, Anna Kuhr of Menasha and Minnie Fischer of Neenah.

Mrs. Hine, who died Feb. 15, left an estate estimated at $10,000 in personal property and over $10,000 in real estate. She left $5,000 to a nephew, Alex H. Eade of Bolivar, Mo., Betty H. Just of St. Louis, Mo., and Jean Vanderziel of Laguna Beach, Calif.

An estate estimated at $1,000 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate was left by the late Mrs. Kuhr who died Feb. 7. She directed that her real estate holdings be sold and that $1,000 be given to her son, Herbie Kuhr of Menasha, and the balance of the estate in equal shares to her son and two daughters, Alvina Blank and Lillian Garfield, both of Neenah.

Will Admitted
Mrs. Fischer, who died Jan. 27, left an estate of $10,000 in real estate. Readers Give Views on Books During National Library Week

Neenah — In observance of National Library week, several Neenah readers have put in writing their opinions of individual books and of reading in general.

The readers' notes on their books are now on display in the main reading room of the Neenah public library.

Of books in general, Mrs. Donald Garlock, 623 Laudan boulevard, has written "one lifetime isn't long enough to see all the places I'd like to see or do all the things I'd like to unless I settle for some of them through books."

"In one week I can explore Tibet with Lowell Thomas (without gagging over the tea made with rancid yak butter) or go on a fascinating archeological expedition (without fear of scorpions) or follow the amazing mind of a great scientist through years of research."

New Insights
"I like a book that will give me new insight into a social problem or reveal the inner workings of industry or big business—as well as the gay approach to adversity of Betty McDonald, the rhymes of Ogden Nash, and the satire of Thurber or Benchley. I enjoy fiction on any subject in time or space by a gifted story teller and have picked up some remarkable bits of information from good mystery stories."

Discussing a book of particular personal interest, Paul Young, 834 Betty avenue, said "S. I. Hayakawa's 'Language in Action' taught me a new appreciation of grammar and style in both writing and reading. I learned that there is much more than mechanics in

Soo Line Would Drop Two Trains

Asks Permission to Eliminate Because of Passenger Deficit

Neenah — The Soo Line's request to discontinue two of its four trains between Chicago and Stevens Point would leave only two passenger trains serving Neenah-Menasha on that railroad.

The Associated Press reported today that the Soo Line has requested permission to eliminate trains Nos. 1 and 2 and two other trains between Spencer and Ashland because of an annual passenger deficit of "close to $1 million out of pocket."

Train No. 1 arrives in Neenah at 6:45 in the morning from Chicago on its way to Stevens Point. Train No. 2 is southbound from Stevens Point to Chicago and arrives at 3:30 in the afternoon.

If permission is granted, the Soo Line will serve Neenah-Menasha with its train No. 17 which runs from Chicago to Duluth and Minneapolis and arrives at 11:25 at night and train No. 18 which arrives at 3 o'clock in the morning from Duluth and Minneapolis, bound for Chicago.

In 1928 the road has seven daily passenger trains each way from Chicago northward through Stevens Point to Duluth and now would have only one each way if permission is granted by the State Public Service commission and the Interstate Commerce commission.

Even a New Cook Can Bake the Hot Cross Muffins with a simplified recipe.

Hot Cross Buns Can be Made An Easy Way

The idea of adding a package of yeast to prepared biscuit mix makes these Hot Cross Muffins a simple procedure. This is a basic, quick recipe because no kneading is required to make the muffins. The addition of a little sugar, dried currants and glazed fruit plus the traditional frosting produces a bread that is light in texture and brown and crusty on the outside. Hot Cross Muffins 2 cups warm water, plus 2 tablespoons 1 tablespoon sugar 1 package active dry yeast 2 cups prepared biscuit mix One-third cup dried currants, each muffin with the frosting. (rinsed in hot water and drained) 2 tablespoons finely diced glazed fruit 1 cup sifted confectioners sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla 1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons cold water Put the warm water in a medium - sized mixing bowl; add sugar and yeast; stir until every grain of yeast is dissolved. Add biscuit mix, currants and (if used) glazed fruit. Beat with a spoon until well mixed. Spoon into buttered muffin cups, filling them about two-thirds full. Let stand in a warm place, free from draft, about one hour. Bake in moderate, 350-degree oven about 25 minutes. Mix until smooth the confectioners sugar, vanilla and enough cold water to make a rather thick consistency. With a small spoon mark a cross on each muffin with the frosting.

Bjornson, Lepawsky Reelected Swim Co-Captains; Athletes are Lauded for Determination, Desire

Senior guard Bill Wood was the leading scorer on the 1957-8 Lawrence college basketball team with 284 points in the club's 20 games. However, sophomore forward Jack Close had a slightly better average. Close, a 6-3 former Appleton high performer, whipped in 150 points in Lawrence's 10 second-semester contests for a 15 point-per-game record. Wood, 5-9, one-time Kimberly high player, averaged 14.2.

The third-ranking pointmaker was Fond du Lac senior Bert Elliott, who played in 15 of the club's 20 contests. He totaled 107 points.

Seniors Score 532

The team's seniors — Wood, Elliott, Jack Leatham, Tom Kayser and Don Wolf (who played in only the first several games) — accounted for 532 of Lawrence's 1,012 points, or 53 per cent.

Wood led in all departments, field goals, free throws and fouls. He fouled out of four games. Close fouled out of seven of his 10 tiffs, including the season's last five contests.

The Vikes, who beat only Cornell (71-66) in their 20 tiffs, averaged 55.6 tallies to the opposition's 70.3. The Cornell victory broke the Lawrence losing streak at 36 games.

The season scoring totals:

Bill Glass Not Officially In Lion Fold

Dallas — The possibility arose today that a contract signed by Bill Glass, former Baylor All-America, with the Detroit Lions of the National Football league might not go through.

Nick Kerbaw, general manager of the Lions, said here Tuesday that he had signed Glass, who was with Regina of the Canadian league last year. But he then found that because of a technicality the deal may not yet be complete.

The technicality was the matter of waiving Glass out of the Canadian league.

Sam Taylor, president of the Regina Rough Riders, said the deal wasn't complete — "We've only given Detroit negotiation rights on Glass."

The waiver rule is a new one in the Canadian league. "This comes as a complete surprise to me," Kerbaw said. "In my dealings with Regina officials, nothing was said about any waivers. They told me they would notify their commissioner and I said I would notify Bell (Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football league)."

Beecham and Vaughn Duel For 3rd Time

Washington — Willie Vaughn and Jimmy Beecham, who certainly need no introduction to each other, square off at Capitol arena tonight for the Vaughn-Beecham championship.

The two middleweights probably would feel out of place trying to bash in anyone else's brains. Each already has fought twice this year, and each time against the other.

So far the count is even. Vaughn outpointed Beecham in 10 rounds on Feb. 4. Beecham reversed the decision one month later. The odds are even so slight that Willie will reverse it again tonight.

The rubber match was hurriedly arranged for Washington when postponement of the Eddie Machen-Zora Foley heavy eight bout left an opening in the Wednesday night televised fight series (ABC, 9 o'clock EST).

Vaughn, 25-year-old Los Angeles boxer, has had 59 fights since turning pro in 1951. His record is 35-16-5.

Beecham, 23, has a 22-6 record.

Twice As Fast — The hazards of spring baseball training were emphasized Tuesday when Jack Harshman, lame back pitcher traded to Baltimore by the Chicago White Sox, was stung by a scorpion. This was one of a series of ailments reported from the cactus and grapefruit front.

The poisonous insect apparently crawled into Harshman's uniform and stung him in the small of the back as he was dressing. Harshman, who said recently he would be able to pitch the entire season if his back didn't bother him any more than at present, was treated and then watched Charlie Beamon and Hector "Skinny" Brown shut out the San Francisco Giants, 1-0, on eight hits.

Drott Spains Ankle — Examinations by a neurologist and head x-rays were ordered for "Dusty" Rhodes, Giants outfielder and 1954 World Series star, who has been complaining of severe headaches for two weeks.

Diet Drott, Chicago Cubs pitcher, was bumped at the plate by Gene Woodling of the Cleveland Indians and in falling sprained his ankle. He will be sidelined from a week to 10 days.

Al Smith, Chicago White Sox outfielder, has been out 19 days with an inflamed tendon in his right leg.

Clem Labine, Los Angeles relief hurler, was struck on the right ankle by Bob Cerv's drive and may be out a week or more. The Dodgers beat the Kansas City A's, 5-4, in 10 innings.

The Dodgers got good news from Vero Beach, Fla., where Duke Snider batted for the first time in spring training. Duke, who was operated on for removal of cartilage in his left knee after the 1957 season, grounded to second and displayed fair speed and no limp as he ran to first base. This was a game where the Dodgers "B" team defeated Spokane of the Coast league, 3-2.

Cleveland Beats Cubs — Joe Ginsberg, Baltimore catcher, led off the seventh with a double and moved to second when Brooks Robinson walked. Lennie Green ran for Ginsberg, and both runners advanced on an infield hit. Green tallied the winning run when Brown rolled out to the pitcher in the game at Scottsdale, Ariz. Cleveland defeated the Cubs, 3-2.

Manitowoc's Duel With Regent Quint Is Rated Toss-Up

Ships Have Higher Scoring Rate; West Has Height Edge

BY CHUCK CAPALDO

Madison — Flipping a coin is as good a way as any of fortelling the winner of the Madison West-Manitowoc encounter in the opening round of the forty-third annual State High School Basketball tournament Thursday night.

West owns a slight edge in height, but Manitowoc has a better scoring average. The Regents have more tournament savvy, but the Ships played a tougher schedule. And so it goes . . .

Bow to Shawano

West, was co-champion of the Big Eight conference along with cross-town rival Madison East.

The Regents bowed, 66-61 to Shawano in the 1957 championship game. They also were runnersup in 1951 when Wisconsin Rapids lowered the boom, 64-55. Madison West took home all the marbles for the first time in 1945 when it downed Lena, 44-35.

Manitowoc, king of the Fox River Valley conference, has never won the state title. Way back in 1926 the Ships lost to Eau Claire, 33-17, for third place. Of course, the FRVC skipped the tournament for many years and that, no doubt, deprived Manitowoc of a chance or two.

Coaches Jim Stevens of West and John Jung of Manitowoc are starting from scratch, at least as far as knowing each other's strengths and weaknesses is concerned.

"Unfortunately," Stevens admitted today, "I don't know enough about Manitowoc. About all I know is that they play in a tough league and it is pretty well established that our own Big Eight was not as strong as in previous years."

Jung disclosed that he had scouts watching West Saturday night in its 81-49 romp over Ripon in the Wisconsin Dells sectional final.

Didn't Learn Much

"That game didn't tell us too much, I'm afraid," Jung said. Jim Bakken, a peppery, 5-11 guard who made The Associated Press' all - tournament team a year ago, is West's ace. A senior, he has chalked up 449 points. Fritz Kruger, a 6-4 junior center, is the No. 2 man with 317 points.

Jung, now in his eleventh year as coach of the Ships, calls his current club "the best I've had since before the war when I was an assistant coach."

"We've been playing our schedule one team at a time and I see no reason to change for the tournament," he added. "The toughest team right now is Madison West."

Jung will probably start four seniors: 5-11 Bill Nelson, 6-0 Brian Eisner, 6-2 Jim Griffin, and 6-34 Bob Scherer; and a junior, 6-3 Dick Hall. Bill Hackbarth, a 6-4 pivotman, is his top reserve.

Nelson, Hall, Griffin and Scherer all cracked the 200-point mark and Eisner came close to it. Nelson is the leader with 453 points. Then comes Hall with 299.

Braves Work Hard On Fundamentals

Aaron Seems Destined to Start The Campaign in Center Field

Bradenton, Fla. — With a gap in the Grapefruit league schedule Tuesday the Milwaukee Braves labored in another of Manager Fred Haney's patented sessions on fundamentals.

As the world champions bore down on such things as bunting, pick-off plays, rundowns and relays, Haney explained: "Getting that extra base yourself or keeping the other guy from getting one decides a lot of games, and we don't aim to lose any that way if we can help it. We will have more work on these things so that they become second nature to the players."

2 Hit Homers

After the 2-hour workout the players mixed it up in a 6-inning intrasquad game that featured homers by outfield candidates Ray Shearer and Johnny DeMerit.

But even as the youngsters belted the ball out of the park Braves' management was confronted with the task of solving its outfield problems.

Surely, Wes Covington will be in left field. That appears to be the only outfield position really set, what with Bill Bruton's future still undetermined. With his knee still not in shape Bruton probably will be placed on the disabled list when the regular season starts.

That leaves Milwaukee with one other regular outfielder, Hank Aaron, and two positions, right and center.

The handwriting began to appear on the clubhouse wall last week when Haney moved Aaron back into center in place of rookie Al Spangler who apparently will be sent down to give him a chance to play regularly.

Candidates for the right field post include veteran Andy Pafko; Bob Hazle, who was a surprise batting star last year; Earl Hersh and Shearer, who joined the team late last season, and DeMerit, plus rookie Lee Mays.

Fights for Job

Hazle, who finished last year with a .403 average, has been hitting a creditable .294 along the exhibition trail, but still must fight for a job. It appears that he could make it and that Pafko undoubtedly will fill one of the utility posts.

DeMerit, Hersh and Mays probably will be sent down and that would leave Shearer to round out the outfield ranks and to take a turn at pinch hitting.

The outfield was a thorn in

Amateur Golf Goes Global

First 'Olympics' To Be Played This October

New York — Amateur golf goes global this year with inauguration of a worldwide tournament which might well be called the "Olympics of golf."

It will be known officially as the World Amateur Golf Team championship. It will be held every two years and will be open to all golf-playing nations.

The first tournament will be staged this October, exact dates to be fixed later, at historic St. Andrews in Scotland. The 1960 event comes to the United States and the 1962 tournament goes to Australasia, probably Australia.

The U.S. Golf association and the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews announced jointly that invitations had gone to 49 nations asking them to send representatives to a planning conference May 2-3 at Chevy Chase, Md., near Washington, D.C.

The format is already set. It will be a 72-hole medal play tournament in which each country places four players. The team title will be determined by adding the three lowest individual scores of each team.

Kyle Rote, Svoboda Sign Giant Pacts

New York — The signed 1958 contracts of co-captains Kyle Rote, end, and linebaker Bill Svoboda of the New York Giants were received Tuesday by the National Football league club.

It will be the eighth year with the club for Rote and the fifth for Svoboda, but the ninth season in the league for Svoboda.

Fights Last Night — Miami Beach, Fla. — Larry Boardman, 141, Marlborough, Conn., stopped Dick Centella, 139, Los Angeles, 5.

Ottawa, Canada — Gale Kerwin, 140, Valley Stream, N.Y., outpointed Davey Dupas, 140, Beaumont, Tex., 10.

Ullwelling Hits 125 Points in 2 ARD Games

Jack's LMRR '5' Plays Puete Muertes In Tourney Finals

The Puete Muertes and LMRR meet at 9:15 tonight in the Jefferson gym in the finals of the Appleton Recreation department's high school Boys Basketball tournament.

The Puete Muertes gained the finals with a 49-28 semi-final triumph over the Sophs Tuesday evening. AHS varsity performer Tom Verkuilen whipped the winners while Ron Abel, also a Terror varsity player, collected eight for the Sophs.

Knock Off U.S.S.R.
LMRR knocked off U.S.S.R., 78-65, in the semi-finals. Terror star Jack Ullwelling fired in 20 baskets and seven free throws for 47 of the victors' points. An AHS teammate, Bob Roemer, dropped in 23 to lead the losers.

Ullwelling rang up an amazing 78 points for his club in its 114-31 first round victory over The Commies. Jack's teammates fed him, passing up all shots throughout the entire second half.

The Puete Muertes dropped the Jets, 87-25, in the opening round. Verkuilen collected 27 for his club.

The Sophs knocked off the Meads, 52-41, in the first round and the U.S.S.R. tripped the Brutes, 53-50.

North Heavily Favored Over Black River Falls

Madison —(U)— Coaches Vic Anderson of Milwaukee North and Sam Young of Black River Falls, opponents in the first game of the state high school basketball tournament Thursday afternoon, have one thing in common.

Both learned their basketball strategems from Ade Olson and Bill Zorn at Eau Claire State college in the late 1940s. There the similarity ends, however, because on the basis of comparative records North should have little or no trouble beating the Tigers from the Mississippi Valley conference.

Been Through Mill
Perhaps the biggest point in North's favor is the fact that seven of Anderson's 10 players have been through the tournament mill before.

The Blue Devils, champions of the Milwaukee City conference and owners of a sparkling 20-0 record, beat Superior Central for the consolation title last year, 68-66.

The state tournament exacts a big toll of the uninitiated each year. The roars of a sell-out crowd of 13,800 at the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse are enough to distract a mule, let alone players making their first appearance.

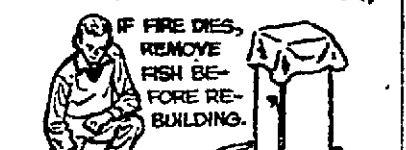

Black River Falls has never been in the state tournament before.

"I don't think we'll have stage fright like we had last year," Anderson said today. "It cost us a possible victory over Madison West in our first game."

The Blue Devils have no individual stars, according to Anderson.

North is well balance and has a strong bench. "Our tenth

Survey Shows Baseball Is No Longer Our 'National Pastime'

New York —(U)— Baseball is no longer "America's national pastime."

Basketball draws the most spectators. Horse racing takes in the most money. And, as for participant sports, Americans go for bowling, fishing and hunting.

Baseball trails in most comparisons.

According to a survey for the Converse Basketball book, basketball attendance for 1956-57 was 142,848,698. No other sport begins to touch this figure but no other sport offers as many games.

Horse racing, both the flats and trotters, drew $3,820,958.

In professional baseball in 1957, the major leagues attracted 17,015,819 and the minors

15,496,684 for a total of 32,512,503.

College football brought in 13,931,295 and pros attracted 2,836,318 for an aggregate 16,767,613.

The race tracks had total receipts of $254,811,000 — topping all recreation phases except the movies and country clubs.

Baseball's receipts were $53,410,000—even less than the billiard parlors, which brought in $74,981,000.

'Sugar' Arrives Without His Usual Swagger

Extends Layoff To 3 Days; Carmen Does Road Work

Chicago —(U)— Middleweight champion Carmen Basilio and challenger Sugar Ray Robinson, each confident he'll win Tuesday's title bout, were to take pre-flight physicals today before the Illinois Athletic commission.

Robinson arrived Tuesday lacking his usual swagger but not without his personal army which included:

His wife, three sparring partners, two trainers, two managers, a bodyguard, a lawyer, a publicist, his personal physician, a guy named "Soldier"

Braves Negotiating With U. S. To Get Tax Relief for Players

New York —(U)— The Milwaukee Braves are championing a fight to gain tax relief for their star players, the Daily News said Tuesday.

Baseball men have sought

Jones and, of course, his personal barber.

Robinson entrenched himself and his crew at a downtown hotel and will begin final workouts Thursday at Joe Louis gym. "Sugar" Ray, who is three pounds over the limit at 163, will remain idle today which gives him a 3-day rest.

The explanation for the extended layoff is that "Robinson is in good shape."

Basilio, quartered in another Loop hotel, arrived in Chicago Monday and did some road work Tuesday. The champion will finish his training at Coulon's gym where Robinson usually has trained in the past.

Members of the Braves organization are negotiating with treasury officials in Washington for an okay on a new style contract under which part of a player's salary could be set aside in tax-free annuities.

Taxable Contract
The funds would become taxable when the player's career is ended.

Dick Young, baseball writer for the New York Daily News, disclosed the Braves' move in the players' behalf and quoted a top Milwaukee official as follows:

"The Treasury department seems favorably inclined toward the idea. We are now in the process of working out certain technical details." It is expected if the Milwaukee plan succeeds, other baseball clubs will take similar measures.

The plan, according to Young, is intended for the higher-paid players and not youngsters who may be receiving $7,000 minimum.

Under the proposal a player receiving $40,000 a year might take $25,000 as immediate income and put the other $15,000, tax free at the time, away for the future. Thus he would pay taxes on $25,000 instead of $40,000.

Taxes rise sharply in the higher income brackets. The average taxation on $25,000 for instance, is 25 per cent, on $40,000 about 40 per cent.

Ted Williams recently revealed that his take-home pay from a reported $100,000 salary was $37,500. If the Milwaukee plan were in effect he might get almost that much from $50,000 and put the other $50,000 inlay for use after he retires.

Broker Sentenced to Waupun for Stealing

Davidson Must Serve at Least 2 Years Before Seeking Parole

Merle E. Davidson, 46, former Appleton real estate broker, will have to serve at least two years in Waupun State prison for stealing $37,350 from 33 former clients.

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede sentenced him to 1 to 12 years on one count and gave him 33 concurrent and consecutive sentences of 1 to 5 years on other charges. Under state law, Davidson's sentence is the maximum imposed by the court. Under state parole rules, Davidson may apply for parole after he has served two years.

Judge Schmiede sentenced Davidson to 1 to 5-year sentences on each of 10 counts of stealing less than $1,000, with the sentences to run concurrently; to 1 to 5-year sentences, to run consecutively with the first, on 22 counts of stealing more than $1,000, with sentence on each count to run concurrently; to a 1 to 12 year sentence on a charge of stealing $3,000, to run concurrently with the other sentences; and to six months in the county jail on the second count of one charge to run concurrently with the other sentences.

Asks Probation

An additional charge, the 34th against the broker, was filed today. Davidson admitted stealing a $700 check given him Aug. 19 by George C. Reichelt, 237 E. Taft street. Judge Schmiede sentenced Davidson to a 1 to 5 year term in the penitentiary, to run concurrently with the other sentences.

Davidson's attorney, James R. Joyce, today presented the court with a petition signed by 22 persons, representing 19 of the 33 people involved in the broker's thefts and $20,455 of the thefts. The petition asked probation for Davidson so he could make restitution.

Joyce pointed out the Iowa man who had employed Davidson while the latter was a fugitive had offered to re-employ the former broker as a salesman if he was given probation. Asked by the court if he had anything to say, Davidson said, "There are lots of things a person would like to say."

"I stand here with despair and numbness in my whole heart and soul—hell and brimstone couldn't sear a soul as my shame has mine."

"I am not only asking a chance for restitution, I'm praying."

Judge Schmiede told Davidson, "Before you came to Appleton from Clintonville, you were an outstanding citizen. When you came to Appleton, your life changed. Why, I don't know."

Lived High

He told Davidson the complaints charging theft did not reflect the money the former broker had borrowed, adding that the total money involved in Davidson's 2-year stay in Appleton probably approximated $50,000 misappropriated.

"Some of this money has been accounted for, some has not," Judge Schmiede said. "You say that you lived high and that's perhaps where the money went."

Judge Schmiede said there was no guarantee offered by the prospective Iowa employer, although the Iowa man estimated Davidson could earn $12,000 a year. The court has considered restitution in this case, the judge went on, but "our experiences have not been too successful along this line, especially when probation is granted in other states."

Not Voluntary

The court reminded Davidson he did not return to Appleton voluntarily but was arrested in Des Moines, Iowa, last December by the FBI.

"While you are sincere at this time, it is highly probable the money would never be paid back if you are given probation. You might very well abscond again," Judge Schmiede stated.

In sentencing Davidson, Judge Schmiede told the former broker, "The court must also consider a deterrent to others — you cannot simply take others' money with no punishment."

Davidson fled Appleton last September.

Federal authorities charged him with forging applications for FHA loan insurance but released him to Outagamie county authorities for prosecution on local charges.

The federal charges still are pending.

Mail Clerk Admits Taking Letters, Cash

24-Year-Old Father Of Two Worked for Post Office 5 Months

A substitute postal clerk in the Appleton post office has admitted stealing letters from mail he handled in the post office. He had worked for the post office about five months.

Postal Inspector John E. Cato, Milwaukee, said Donald A. Holland, 24, 4001 W. Spencer road, married and the father of two children, admitted the thefts to postal inspectors Tuesday.

Holland was to be formally charged and arraigned before the U. S. commissioner in Milwaukee this afternoon.

Cato said Holland has been working as a substitute mail clerk at the Appleton post office since last October. Holland apparently stole from the mail for several months, although the loss has not been definitely established, Cato indicated.

Inspectors found some of the mail and cash taken from the mail in Holland's car.

Former President Named Board Officer; Driessen Still in Charge of Operations

Clintonville—Robert A. Olen, president of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company since 1952, has been elected vice chairman of the board of directors and Maurice E. Ash has been elected president of the truck-manufacturing firm, it was announced by George E. Mallinckrodt, chairman of the FWD board.

Ash has been serving as vice president of Paradynamics Incorporated, St. Louis, Mo., corporation which purchased controlling stock interest in FWD last January.

James A. Driessen, who has been with FWD since 1930, will continue in charge of company operations as executive vice president, a position he has held since Jan. 1, 1954.

Also continuing as part of FWD's top management group are G. F. DeCoursin, vice president—sales, a position to which he was elected in June, 1954; Philip A. Larnino, vice president—manufacturing since May, 1954, and G. D. Simonds, vice president—engineering since January, 1955. DeCoursin is responsible for all FWD sales and sales promotion, Larnino for all production, and Simonds for all engineering functions.

Olen, who has been with FWD since 1934, when he earned his Ph.D. degree from Lawrence college, has served the company as assistant general manager, general manager, vice president, and president before being elected vice chairman. His father, Walter A. Olen, founded FWD in 1910 and was president until succeeded by Robert A. Olen in 1952.

Phone Service Expanding, Report States

Annual Survey Sees Decrease in Earnings For Wisconsin Firms

Last year "was one of continued expansion and improvement in most respects except earnings" for the Wisconsin Telephone company, the firm's 1957 annual report, released today, states.

Two of the highlights were the installation of its millionth telephone in service and the celebration of the company's 75th anniversary of providing communication services for its customers in Wisconsin.

In passing the one million mark, the concern added 50,000 telephones during 1957, the fourth largest gain in its 75-year history. At the end of the year, the company was serving 1,005,600 telephones in over 150 Wisconsin communities. The expenditure of $47 million for construction was the largest in its history.

Total revenues for 1957, according to the report, amounted to $102,440,000 compared with $94,109,000 in 1956. Total operating expenses and taxes rose to $88,506,000 compared with $80,998,000 in 1956.

Total taxes, including the 10 per cent federal excise, amounted to $31,150,000, an average of $31.70 per telephone. The federal excise tax itself totaled $8,400,000 in 1957.

Property Returns

The return on net property declined from 6.3 percent to 5.9 percent. "Four-tenths of one percent is equivalent to $2,500,000 in revenues," the report points out. "The downward trend is the reverse of what it should be, especially in view of our continuing need for expansion. Substantially higher earnings are essential if we are to justify and continue to obtain the large amount of new capital required for future growth and service improvements."

At the end of 1957, total plant investment reached $326 million compared with $102 million in 1946. During the year, the average investment per telephone rose from $300 to $325. This increasing investment, the report continues, "together with higher expenses, clearly required a further increase in our rates." Application for additional revenue was made to the public service commission. Hearings were held in November and January and a decision is pending.

Handling of 1.4 billion calls, an average of over 4,000,000 a day.

Providing local dial service at four more communities, bringing to 91 percent the number of telephones that are dial operated.

Burner Code Rewritten

Will be Reoffered City Councilmen at Tonight's Meeting

The controversial trash burner ordinance will be reoffered the city council tonight.

It was passed once by the council in early February but subsequently was withdrawn from the ordinance adoption procedure for rewriting by City Atty. Don Jury.

The size of the mesh required for covers and requirements for distances burners should be kept from fixed objects caused the controversy.

As now approved by the welfare and recreation (ordinance) committee, the new burner code would require:

1. Covers and open sides be made of No. 8 wire with a mesh not more than one inch across. The first draft had the mesh not more than a half inch across.
2. Waste materials may not be burned (in the burners) within 10 feet of any building. The first draft required a 15-foot setback.
3. Waste materials may not be burned (in the burners) within five feet of any tree, bush, shrub, fence or sidewalk. The first draft had it restricted to within 10 feet.
4. Waste materials may not be burned (in the open without a burner) within 30 feet of buildings. This provision was not in the original draft.

Share Prices Move Higher

3-Day Decline Halted in Early Afternoon Trade

New York—The stock market rallied in the early afternoon today after a 3-day losing streak.

Leaders were up fractions to about two points. Some favorites fared better and tobacco shares were in good demand. There were a few small losers.

The market advanced at the opening, backed away slightly, then pushed to its highs for the day in early afternoon.

Trading was fairly active. Turnover was heaviest at the start and during the midday rally.

The Washington news was mostly bullish. The White House called for a speedup of construction of more than $2 billion in public works, housing and rural electrification projects. This came after the cut in bank reserve requirements late Tuesday.

Liggett & Myers and Reynolds Tobacco B were up about a point.

Lukens, Youngstown Sheet &

Tube and U. S. Steel advanced a point or so.

Saud's Prestige Suffers From Alliance With West

King's Reversal, Lost Attachment
With Nasser, Unpopular in Arabia

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington — It is a curious sensation to come home, after close to a year and a half abroad, and find everyone totally preoccupied with the danger of a domestic depression. It is curious, alas, because the danger abroad is at least as great as the danger at home.

If anyone wants proof of this dreary assertion, they need only have a look at the present plight of America's chief Middle Eastern ally, King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Not very many months ago, in the bitter aftermath of Suez, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles went to Bermuda to meet with British Prime Minister Macmillan and Lloyd. At Bermuda, the president and secretary of state happily promised their friend King Saud would thenceforth serve as "the anchor" of a new policy guaranteed to protect all the vital western interests in the Middle East.

But now "the anchor" is slipping. The state department, while maintaining a brave front in public, is pale duck-egg green with worry.

Changes Alliance

King Saud's link with American policy (as distinguished from his financial link to the Arabian-American Oil company) only dates from October, 1956. Until then, he had been intimately allied with Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, and his not long after the king broke strong anti-western movement organized by Nasser in every post of Minister of the Interior, other Arab state. Then, in October, 1956, King Saud began to understand that Nasser also threatened the Saudi throne, and he started to reverse his alliances. Thereafter, the enmity towards Nasser mounted, until recently King Saud seems to have made a desperate, last-minute attempt to prevent the union of Syria with Egypt under Nasser's leadership.

A few days ago, Nasser dramatically revealed the alleged attempt to prevent Egyptian-Syrian union. This revelation has in turn touched off a highly dangerous ferment in King Saud's strange desert capital of Riyadh, where the king's reversal of alliances was never popular. Even among the members of the royal family and Saudi ruling class who had most to lose by a Nasser triumph in their country, many always regretted the lost attachment to Egypt.

More specifically, the king's brother and heir, Feisal, prince of the Hejaz, left Saudi Arabia for a venomous onslaught by Nasser and his Jordanian supporters. All the same, one must hope for the best. For if King Saud is replaced by returning to his former alliance with Nasser, the ensuing political chain reaction will rapidly destroy the west's other remaining friends in the Arab lands.

medical treatment in the United States, when he went to Cairo as Nasser's guest instead of returning to Saudi Arabia.

Crown Prince

Now, however, after months in Cairo, the Saudi Arabian crown prince has at last gone home, timing his return to coincide with Nasser's vicious public attack on King Saud. The feelings of King Saud are suggested by the fact that he had hardly welcomed the crown prince at the airport, before he suggested that his brother's health would benefit from a long hunting trip in the desert.

Even if the king does scrape by this crisis, it is admitted that Saud's prestige has suffered too much to permit him to do again the sort of thing he did last March, when he rescued King Hussein of Jordan from a venomous onslaught by Nasser and his Jordanian supporters. All the same, one must hope for the best. For if King Saud is replaced by returning to his former alliance with Nasser, the ensuing political chain reaction will rapidly destroy the west's other remaining friends in the Arab lands.

State Pilot Questioned For 7 Days

Seoul, Korea — A U. S. pilot shot down by North Korean gunfire said Monday the communists questioned him for seven days but did not treat him roughly.

Capt. Leon Pfeiffer of Kenosha, Wis., said about 50 North Korean soldiers captured him immediately after he parachuted onto the red side of the Korean truce line on March 6. His F86 Sabre jet was hit by communist ground fire but he was not injured.

"While descending I was a small arms firing in my vicinity," he said in a statement issued through the 8th army.

"I was taken to a forward outpost and held for about three hours," he said, "then taken to a forward hospital where I was interrogated for seven days. On the seventh day I was given a haircut, shave and bath and during the night was driven to Kaesong."

Pfeiffer's plane veered over the red side of the demilitarized zone while he and another pilot were on a training mission. The other plane escaped the ground fire. The UN command acknowledged that the planes violated North Korean air space unintentionally but accused the communists of making "an unnecessary armed attack."

Women's Right to Vote Unrecognized in New Hampshire

Concord, N.H. — New Hampshire may finally get around to recognizing that women have the right to vote. In practice, New Hampshire women have been casting ballots, as have their sisters across the nation, since passage of the 19th amendment to the U.S. constitution in 1920.

But the New Hampshire constitution still restricts the voting privilege for governor, state legislators and other state officials to "every male inhabitant."

Mrs. Carmita A. Murphy of Dover ran a 1-woman suffrage campaign as a delegate to a 1956 constitutional convention to have the word "male" deleted from those sections of the constitution. She won.

A proposed constitutional change will appear on the state ballots in November.

"These outmoded restrictions," she said, are "a reflection upon the women of New Hampshire whose political rights are a sacred and well-earned right."

When New Hampshire ratified the 19th amendment in 1919, the legislature ordered the word "male" deleted from state voting restriction laws. The change was never made in the state constitution.

Bake a Bunny Cake for Symbolic Centerpiece

The rabbit is a very old Easter tradition. Since ancient Egypt the hare has been a symbol of the moon and since Easter's date is determined by the phases of the moon, the rabbit became the symbol of the day.

This Easter, delight your family with a bunny cake which is easy to make and easy to assemble. Arrange the bunny cake on a serving platter or tray, surrounded by brightly tinted eggs and decorate with spray of fresh blossoms.

Bunny Cake

1 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 eggs
2 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1/2 cup milk
Blend shortening, sugar and vanilla. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Combine flour, salt and baking powder and add alternately with the milk to the egg mixture. Pour batter into a greased 9-inch cake pan or glass baking dish that is two inches deep and bake at 325 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes, or until cake tests done. Turn cake out onto rack to cool thoroughly.

When ready to assemble the bunny, cut the cake in half crosswise, then place one half, curved size up, to form the body. Split the other half into two thin layers and from one layer cut the head and tail.

A 3-inch in diameter cookie cutter makes the head; a 1 1/2 inch in diameter cookie cutter makes the bunny tail.

To fashion the ears: Use the 3-inch cookie cutter to remove one corner of the slice, cutting into the cake about two inches to form a curved edge which will fit on the bunny's head. From the other end of the slice remove a deep V-shaped piece of cake.

Fasten the head and tail securely in place with wooden dowels or metal skewers. Fasten the ears to the head by running a dowel or skewer through the ears and head into the body of the bunny.

Frost with your favorite meringue frosting and press a piece of maraschino cherry into the frosting for the nose and eye.

Serve Brussels Sprouts Creamed With Herbs

For a flavorful vegetable change, feature Brussels sprouts prepared for the table by heating the cooked sprouts with sour cream, a fleck of poultry seasoning, salt and ground black pepper. Just before serving, sprinkle with caraway seed.

A Charming and Novel Centerpiece to add a fresh touch to your Easter table is this easy-to-make bunny cake. One nine inch layer cake is all it takes.

Touch of Sweetener Added to Biscuits

Ordinary baking powder biscuits can be made more glamorous by the addition of grated orange rind and sugar.

Add one tablespoon grated orange rind and one tablespoon sugar to standard baking powder biscuits; roll 1-inch thick and cut with small cutter. If, desired, dip a sugar cube quickly into orange juice and press gently into top of biscuit before baking.

Pork Talk

For mealtime pleasure, cut regular bacon slices into four pieces. Put a piece of bacon in each section of a waffle iron; pour in batter and bake. Diced bacon may be added directly to and cut with small cutter. If,

Silvery Whiting Good Protein Buy, Serve With Sauce

Slim silvery whiting are among the best protein buys this lenten season. Fished from the deep waters of the Atlantic, frozen in east coast ports and distributed throughout the United States, supplies of this delicately flavored fish are so abundant now that prices are extremely low. Whiting is a versatile fish when it comes to preparation. Cook it most any way you like. Fry it, grill it, poach it. Or bake it with cheese, following this recipe from the National Fisheries institute.

Cheese-Baked Whiting

Allow one to 2 whiting for each person. Sprinkle whole dressed whiting with chopped chives and parsley, salt and pepper. Place fish in baking dish and pour cheese sauce over them.

Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Cheese Sauce

Melt one tablespoon butter in saucepan. Remove pan from heat. Stir in one tablespoon flour and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Gradually add one-half cup milk and stir until well blended. Return to heat and cook until thickened, about two minutes. Add cheese. Stir until smooth. Makes enough sauce for two whiting.

Tinkering With the Economy

There is now little doubt that the federal government is going to return to a policy of deficit financing in an effort to put some pep into the economy. In the recessions of 1949 and 1954 it successfully fought off demands for such a policy from the Democrats and their political allies, but today the country's business leaders are among the loudest of those demanding it. Thus the Republicans as well as the Democrats are pretty sure to junk the idea of a balanced budget.

Of course a sharp recovery in business conditions this spring could alter this situation. But more and more economists are predicting that the upturn won't come before late summer or fall.

There are two ways the government can create an unbalanced budget and thus, theoretically at least, pump more money into circulation. One way is to spend more; the other is to cut taxes.

Some Democrats have called for a huge public works program, but sentiment in Congress seems to be leaning toward a tax cut instead. The Republicans can be counted on to support the tax cut approach almost unanimously, and apparently quite a few Democrats want it too. If the present mood continues to pervade the capital, we are likely to get a tax cut and more government spending too.

Yet how effective can we expect either action — or both combined — to be? The Wall Street Journal recently interviewed corporation presidents, workmen, housewives and small businessmen around the country and found that very few of them figured they would turn around and spend any money they received through a tax cut; most of them would simply add to their savings, or pay off their debts. If this is an accurate picture of the nation's mood, simply putting more money into the hands of the people may have little effect on the economy. It is quite apparent that our troubles today are not caused by the people having too little money — personal incomes are higher than ever before — but rather by a hesitancy to spend the money they do have.

Worrying About Juveniles

Juvenile delinquency is a nationwide problem and always has been. Recently our attention was centered on lawlessness in New York's city schools. Murders, rapes, beatings of both students and teachers were reported in the schoolrooms, some of which could not be operated without police on guard.

Many years ago the people of the East were shocked at the reports of how children were being raised on the frontier in Wisconsin. Consider this statement:

Here in the West we are barbaric without the barbaric virtues of an earlier time. They have been supplanted by the vices of civilization and we are in a deplorable state . . . The boys of the town—I know hardly an exception—are idle, shockingly profane, fond of loafing about saloons, drinking when they can get liquor and thinking only of having a good time. A 6-year-old boy was drunk in a saloon last week. I don't know what will become of the country when the present generation of youth gets possession of the reins of government; corruption is rife now, it will be rampant then.

That paragraph was written by John J. Tracy in a letter to his mother in 1866-67. Tracy, a graduate of Dartmouth, had come

Says Sales Tax Would Hurt Wisconsin

Editor, Post-Crescent:

One of your recent editorials raises the sales tax issue. It suggests a discussion of such a tax.

Perhaps most citizens do not realize how much the economy of the north and all of Wisconsin would be hurt by a sales tax.

First: The sales tax is not based upon "ability to pay". Therefore the shop owners, resort owners and others who would not have a good income due to a poor season, etc., would still be paying a tax based upon "necessity to buy", rather than based upon "ability to pay".

Second: A sales tax is a "thieving" tax, as the consumer cannot keep an accurate record of the total tax that he pays. It falls very heavily on the low income families with children.

Third: It is a tax that puts the burden of collection upon the small merchant. Many of our local stores would have to buy much more complicated and expensive cash registers than they now have, in order to properly record their sales. Others would have to keep much more complicated sales records than they now do. The large merchant collects considerably more sales taxes than the small merchant, due to his many departments, but only pays a sales tax on the gross monthly or quarterly sales. As a result the large merchant gets a sales tax "windfall", which is why many large stores are for sales taxes.

Fourth: I am sure that many merchants will tell you that many sales are made in the north and in Wisconsin because there is no sales tax. Although the tax on a single sale might not be much, yet human psychology being what it is, I am sure that many purchases are made as a result of the fact that the customer can buy without a sales tax in Wisconsin. I know this to be true of my own sales. This is a fact, as state statis-

We think the real key to the present situation is the attitude of the American businessman; he is sitting around waiting for the government to "do something."

Take the automobile industry as an example; the reaction of its leaders to a drop in sales seems to be little except to run to Washington to testify before congressional committees. We have heard no talk about cutting prices, increasing advertising (it has been cut), putting more juice into sales efforts (how long has it been since a car salesman called on you?). The industry enjoyed great prosperity in the period 1946-57 because it came out with such attractive models and surrounded them with such irresistible merchandising appeal that people were willing to go heavily in debt just for the privilege of owning them. There is plenty of credit available today at reasonable rates for people who want to buy autos or other merchandise, but the people just don't seem interested.

We are suggesting that too many American businessmen have forgotten how to sell — how to part the customer from his money, if you will. This is the real challenge that the recession poses to our business community; it is a challenge to our industrial and merchandising leaders, to the advertising profession, to the salesmen in the showrooms and in the stores and on the road. Whether the government cuts taxes or spends more or does both, only the businessman who knows how to make the customer want his product is going to move merchandise.

The American businessman who is waiting for the government to do something about the recession is betraying the traditions of the business society of which he is a part, its political philosophy and its economic beliefs. What the country really needs at this time, in our opinion, is more companies like the International Latex corporation which during the past several months has sharply increased its advertising budget and other sales promotion efforts, and as a result has seen both its sales and profits rise while those of many other companies were falling.

west to teach in the Green Bay public schools. His description of life there went to his mother in the East.

He had some good things to say about Wisconsin. A good hunter could shoot about 100 pigeons in an hour or so any morning, and with its excellent harbor he thought Green Bay would become one of the chief commercial cities in the country. But it must be admitted that his hopes for the youth then growing up in this section of Wisconsin were low.

The fact is that young people have always been a problem for adults. They are always the greatest responsibility of parents and teachers. They are a worry, and no generation has been free from this worry or from the fear that not enough was being done to insure success for the next generation. Over and over throughout history people have fretted and worried about the conduct of the next generation. There is no hope that the present generation can change, but there may be some balm in the thought that the "wild, reckless" generation now growing up will soon be worrying about the next crop of thoughtless, pleasure-seeking kids.

tics show that the per capita sales in Wisconsin are considerably higher than in the surrounding sales tax states. This fact is further emphasized by the fact that the per capita sales of furs, in the city of Milwaukee alone, is way out of proportion to the population and per capita wealth of that city.

Unfortunately, the politicians and lobbyists who are for a sales tax, have been maneuvering to get Wisconsin into a bad financial position, so that an emergency will be created. They hope and expect that under the guise of a financial emergency, a sales tax can be put over. This is what happened in California during the 1930's—I lived there at that time, so know the propaganda techniques that were used, and also I know what it means to be a sales tax collector, as I was one for approximately 15 years.

Every citizen of Wisconsin should inform himself of the meaning and ramifications of a sales tax—it is one that only the really wealthy can be in favor of, as they are the only benefactors of a sales tax.

Let's face it—the solution for more taxes in Wisconsin is to raise the rates on the lower income brackets and close the present tax loopholes, of which there are several glaring ones. There is no reason why a person with a low income should pay no state income taxes (he would really be hurt by a sales tax), but let's keep the tax base based upon ability to pay. Are we such immature people that we do not want to know how much we pay in taxes, so we want to resort to the unfair and inequitable sales taxes? I hope not!

'If It Works Out, It'll be a Nice Change'

These Days

Learning to Know People Doesn't Mean There'll be Peace, Happiness

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY
(Copyright, 1958)

The Russian propaganda machine manages by constant repetition to force upon our minds certain symbols and concepts which we repeat and which after prolonged repetition come to be accepted as our own.

I was sitting next to a wise man recently and we were listening to a speaker say that we should all know each other better and that he is happy that the United States is extending its cultural interrelations. The man next to me said that the only people he ever quarreled with were those whom he knew, like his wife, for instance. He said that the people in all this world whom we know best are the British. To a lesser degree, the same is true about the Germans. The two largest components of the American population are the British and the Germans; yet they are the only nations against whom we have fought two wars.

Sukarno Incident

The people we hardly know at all are Indians, Indonesians, Ceylonese, and other Asiatics but we sputter all over ourselves when we think of them. Somehow the less we know them, the more wonderful they seem to us. So, for instance, we got all excited over an Indonesian Socialist, by name Sukarno, who was given a red-carpet reception when he came to the United States, but who now goes in for a doctrine called "guided democracy."

According to the anti-communist Sumatrans, this "guided democracy" is a cover for letting the communists join the government. Precisely what the difference is between Sukarno's "guided democracy," and Nasser's "presidential democracy," and Tito's benevolent paternalism, I cannot tell you.

Suffice it, that nobody can be too angry about something he knows nothing about, although he may have prejudices on the subject based on general principles. Let us say that I listen to David Oistrakh play the Beethoven Violin Concerto. Also Isaac Stern plays it. Also Francescatti plays it. Also Elman and everybody else. The most I can say is that Oistrakh is a first-class violinist who can play the Beethoven Violin Concerto with ability, understanding and sympathy. But does that make me like Khushchev? Does it cause me to prefer the Russian system of government or the Russian way of life?

Or look at the other side of the coin. A Negro trumpet player wants to go to Russia to play the trumpet there in jazz style. His name is "Satchmo" Armstrong. I do not know what Satchmo means, although someone told me, maybe to fool me, that it is a nickname for a big mouth. I heard him once and marvelled at his enormous chest expansion; what he played bored me but my son says it is good, which explains the difference in generations.

Now after the Russians have listened to the aforesaid Satchmo, will they have a better understanding of the American constitution, the capitalist system, the revolt against Puritanism, and other manifestations of American life?

When we speak about cultural exchanges, and we decide not to leave such exchange to the accidents of life and the free will of individuals, but force them by government propaganda and recruitment, what do we actually accomplish?

Must Convince Khushchev
Recently, a bright young man and his wife upbraided

me for not getting hot and bothered about the failure of our government to spend more money to advertise our civilization at the world's fair to be held in Belgium. To tell the truth, I had barely paid any attention to this subject, but while I was being upbraided, it occurred to me to wonder who will be convinced by what at this world's fair? If we are to resolve our cold war with Soviet Russia, we have to convince only one man, namely, Khushchev. All right, for argument's sake, let us agree that we have to convince also Mikoyan, Bulganin and three or four others of their colleagues. What will convince these hard-boiled second generation communists? It is not likely to be the Rockettes or the Philadelphia symphony.

Well, what would convince them that they ought to cut down the cost of the cold war? Probably nothing but evidence that even if they get in the first smack, we have enough to destroy quickly and with perfection the material gains of their revolution.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of March 22, 1879.

The story-and-a-half dwelling house at the corner of Superior and Bates streets, Second Ward, was thoroughly scorched by incendiarism on Wednesday night, although the steamers fairly drowned it out.

It was quite an old structure which belonged to Dr. John Sutherland and worth about $700. Being empty at the time, it attracted the attention of the rascally firebugs; hence its destruction. Insurance $500.

So many people were totally unconscious of the fact there was a primary election Tuesday that the presence of flags here and there about town caused comment. Many persons who attended the performance of "The Silver King" at Lawrence chapel were not aware of the election until they saw the ballot boxes and voting booths in the lobby of the chapel.

Parties to Ask Aid From County Officeholders

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison — In making the typical and required prediction of victory for his party at a Milwaukee rally the other day, GOP State Chairman Claude J. Jasper remarked that the Republicans possess an overwhelming majority of the elective public offices in Wisconsin.

Among others, he was thinking of the hundreds of county courthouse offices, the possession of which is one of the most vital of the resource advantages of the Wisconsin majority party in a year when it is steadily itself for a powerful assault by the Democrats.

The figures are not at hand, but it is a safe guess that even after some moderate Democratic inroads lately 75 per cent or more of the county elective offices are occupied by men and women elected on the Republican ballot.

That is an advantage for the Republican, as any politician who ever canvassed a precinct knows, but it is one that must be exploited to be most useful.

Wyngaard

Among others, he was thinking of the hundreds of county courthouse offices, the possession of which is one of the most vital of the resource advantages of the Wisconsin majority party in a year when it is steadily itself for a powerful assault by the Democrats.

The figures are not at hand, but it is a safe guess that even after some moderate Democratic inroads lately 75 per cent or more of the county elective offices are occupied by men and women elected on the Republican ballot.

That is an advantage for the Republican, as any politician who ever canvassed a precinct knows, but it is one that must be exploited to be most useful.

PASSIVITY

Chances are that the Republican commanders, if they are the realists their responsibilities require, will "firm up" the courthouse campaigns this year.

The fact is, and some of the GOP strategists are uncomfortably aware of it, that the dividends that should have come from courthouse hegemony in recent campaigns have been less than might have been expected by practical politicians.

The courthouse campaigners have become a pretty passive lot — on the whole — not only with respect to the interests of the party organization with which they are nominally identified, but also with regard to their own campaigns for votes. Many of them have been unaccustomed to opposition for their own offices, and have not been particularly concerned with hustling for the party in the absence of personal political peril.

But the circumstances will be changed this year. Not only will there be more courthouse aspirants on the Democratic side, compelling the incumbents to bestir themselves. But there also will be solemn appeals for more action from state headquarters for the sake of the health of the party.

MOMENTUM

The hundreds of courthouse campaigners constitute an enormously effective phalanx of warriors for any party. That is the reason why opposition parties in the past sought repeatedly, but vainly, to take county offices off the partisan ballot. It was not a reform motivation; it was strictly and obviously practical politics.

The county sheriff, it has been aptly said, is the most important man on the election ballot — with respect to vote-getting or vote-losing potential. With the district attorney and the county clerk and the rest, he heads a slate that in most situations is more directly related to the local resident's interest than the oratory of the governor in distant Madison, or the roll calls of the congressmen in even more remote Washington.

The Democrats of Wisconsin, assessing the logistical problems of the Wisconsin political map with cool realism, know all these things.

They have worked desperately to organize more and better local candidate slates of their own. In those counties where they have managed to break into the courthouse elective offices, they have had and exploited the practical advantages the Republicans have had in most of the state for many years but have sometimes complacently neglected to use for all they are worth.

One congressman says he intends to take vigorous anti-recession steps. Instead of just talking about it, he vows to run against it.

Bread Like Mother Used to Make Baked By Denver Man of 82

Denver — An 82-year-old Tom Sekulich in his time has been a coal miner, a grain farmer and a cement maker. Now he's the bread baker for the family.

Every Saturday Sekulich, who is 82, rolls enough dough in his kitchen for bread for himself, his wife, his daughter and son-in-law and two granddaughters.

"He's never used a recipe," Mrs. Sekulich said. "He just remembers how his mother used to bake it."

Man Who Led the Armenian Exodus in 1917 Dies

Radlett, England — Capt. George F. H. Gracey, 78, who led the exodus of 250,000 Armenians from Turkey to Russia during World War I, died Monday.

A native of Belfast, Gracey was a member of the American relief expedition sent to the Caucasus to assist the 200,000 Armenians who fled Turkey in 1915. Singlehanded, he led 25,000 of them from Van, in south Turkey, to Igdir the next year. In 1917, as a British intelligence officer in the Caucasus, he placed large numbers of Armenians, Russians and Georgians in posts vacated by Russian troops who turned bolshevik. He was captured by the bolsheviks and imprisoned in Moscow for nine months. After his exchange he returned to the Caucasus as British representative to the Armenian republic. He returned home after the bolshevik overthrow of the trans-Caucasian republics in 1920.

2 Face Trial For Assault On Korean Boy

Seoul — Two U.S. Army men will be court-martialed on charges of assaulting a young Korean thief who was beaten, nailed in a box and flown 25 miles, the army said Tuesday.

A major who had already lost his command because of the Feb. 25 incident has received the choice of a slap-on-the-wrist sentence or trying to beat the rap in a trial, 8th Army headquarters said.

The case of 14-year-old Kim Choon Il has brought renewed demands by South Korea for the right to try U.S. servicemen.

Capt. Marvin E. Kemp, 40, of Plymouth, Pa., had the boy put into a helicopter and flew it to another field, where he said it contained spare parts, investigators said. When supply room personnel heard whimpering from the box, James said it contained a thief, the investigation found.

Khushchev Tells Of Communist Party Work for Candidates

Moscow — Nikita Khrushchev says the communist party uses everything at its disposal to insure election of its candidates in Russian elections.

The Soviet party chief made the remark in a discussion with three U.S. observers of Sunday's single slate elections for the supreme soviet — Russia's parliament. None of the 1,378 party nominated candidates was opposed and the government says 99.97 per cent of the voters — or 133 million — turned out.

Khushchev admitted the party is consulted on the choice of candidates, but that the final decision is made at pre-election meetings in the nation's various districts.

He talked for 105 minutes with the three observers on the election, U.S. unemployment and other issues. The observers were Richard Scammon of the U.S. Government Affairs Institute; Cyril E. Black, a Princeton history professor, and Hedley Donovan, editor of Fortune magazine.

Presley Is Symbol of Destruction For Unadjusted, Unhappy Teenager

BY EUGENE GILBERT

What sort of teenager really likes Elvis Presley—idolizes him from the top of his bushy brown hair to the soles of his blue suede shoes?

Is he (or she) a good student? A joiner? A churchgoer? A hero worshiper? Does he differ in any way from the average Perry Como or Frank Sinatra fan?

In short, is the rabid Elvis fan all shook up emotionally, mentally, socially and academically?

To get the answers to these questions we had to depart somewhat from our usual approach of public opinion research and delve into a scientific area known as motivational research.

Usually, our surveys try to determine how many think what about whom or about what.

This time we went a step further and wanted to know why.

group operated by their school, church or community.

Remarkable one, "Who's got time for school clubs? I'd rather sit around with my pals."

Presley Fans Trail

Fans of Frank Sinatra, Perry Como and Pat Boone scored higher—about 50 per cent—when it came to joining.

They also seemed to do better in school, receiving grades at least one and one-half times higher than the Presley followers. The average school grade for an Elvis man (or woman) was C, compared with B or better for the Sinatra-Como-Boone faction.

Of the latter, one out of every three said they strove to obtain the best possible grade.

Only one out of every 10 Presley fans could say the same. Two out of 10 said emphatically they didn't care one way or the other where grades were concerned.

Similarly, Presley fans were shockingly unconcerned about the future. A large number had no answer when asked what he or she aspired to become in life. At least 30 per cent had never given it a thought and didn't want to be reminded of it.

Sinatra, Como and Boone addicts had a somewhat better score, but not much. Of those who gave a thought to the future, 40 per cent wanted to enter some profession, 35 per cent were bent on a technical trade.

100 Guinea Pigs

Our motivational research department, using the knowledge and tools developed by the social scientists and applying them on a larger scale through the survey technique, sought the whys and the wherefores of Elvis worship.

This is how we went about it. We selected about 100 teenagers at random and questioned them extensively on three areas of their daily lives.

First, we wanted to know about their extra-curricular activities, their hobbies, their interests.

Next, we asked them about their scholastic achievements. Do they rank in the upper, middle or lower third of their class? What are their general attitudes toward their school work?

What About Future

Third, we asked them about the future. To what do they aspire after high school? What is their aim and mission in life? Do they think they will reach their cherished goal?

Individual answers varied, of course, but the aggregate produced a definite pattern, and from this pattern an outline sketch of the typical Presley fan emerged.

Presley fans, to begin with, are not joiners. Only 33 per cent of his most enthusiastic admirers professed membership in a club, society or other and 18 per cent were planning to enter the armed forces (since most of the boys will soon reach draft age, this didn't take too much planning).

Adjustments Difficult

After tabulating these answers about club activities, school work and future plans, our researchers next went to work analyzing them in the light of modern sociological findings.

We started with the fact that the teenager not only is experiencing physical change during these formative years, but also is undergoing changes in attitude toward social responsibilities and community activities.

More and more demands are being imposed upon him by the adult world, yet he still clings to his dependent, infantile existence of former years. He wants more independence, status and recognition, but he is wary of responsibility. The internal conflict is a strong one.

The organized, conventional clubs provide, for the well-adjusted boy, a necessary outlet where he can express his independence and at the same time fulfill his adolescent yearning to belong. He can stand on his own two feet, but he need not stand apart.

Presley a Symbol

But to the not so well-adjusted teenager the problem is not quite so simple. He, too, has a sense of belonging but cannot seem to satisfy it in acceptable outlets. His infantile needs are too strong. He cannot fit into a world organized by adults and refuses to fit the responsibility

Declares Government Should be Run Like Private Business

Sauk City — State Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D - Madison) said Monday night modern business methods should be adopted by Wisconsin government to save taxpayers a million dollars annually.

Nelson, a candidate for governor, told a Democratic party rally that by modernizing state government along the lines of private business "present duplications and waste can be eliminated."

He shuns the conventions of the adult world, because he regards that world as a threatening place. It demands that he meet the obligations of school work. It asks him to plan for the future and his own economic security. It invites him to take his place as a responsible citizen in an organized community.

In this nether world between childhood and manhood, Elvis Presley emerges as a symbol of destruction. Presley is unacceptable to the adult world and, to the unadjusted teenager, he seems to mock its cultural taboos. Through an alliance of sense of belonging but cannot seem to satisfy it in acceptable outlets. His infantile needs are too strong. He cannot fit into a world organized by adults and refuses to fit the responsibility

To Your Good Health Stay Active, Arthritics Told; Keep Joints From 'Freezing'

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You recommended that a person remain 'mobile' when they had rheumatoid arthritis. May I say amen!"

"I had it in '44 when I had to remain active. I had a 9-month-old baby, a 2-year-old daughter, and a husband who worked nights. I was stricken rather suddenly, and there I was with a house, a family and no help to be had."

"Even my collarbone ached, and I couldn't use my hands at times. I crawled up and down the stairs. At night I would stiffen up so I couldn't get out of bed in the morning and would have to poke my husband and say, 'Give me a shove.'"

"During the day if I bent down I'd have to crawl to some place so I could lift myself up. I slept in long wool johns as my feet were always frozen. I used to soak my hands in real hot water to take the ache out, and would move them at the same time. I slept with a heating pad."

"Today I'm glad I couldn't hire any help. Or maybe I'm the stubborn type. All I know is the pain was unbearable at times and I'd cry."

"But I'd work all day until late at night when I'd finally limber up a little. I took baths, four, five, six a day, just as hot as I could stand. I took pain pills every four hours. I had it all winter, real bad. In the spring I began to get better. I could walk a little faster. (How I dragged.) By the next summer I was in control and all I got was one little bent finger. I still get it in the back, but I've had two more children and I get a twinge now and then, but I add heat (at home) to your therapy."

Won't Kill You

"I've never written a letter before, but I feel sorry for people with arthritis, and if they don't sit down and worry about it — they'll get better. It sure won't kill you. But I wouldn't wish the pain on my worst enemy. Thank you. — Mrs. W."

"P.S. — I also had a great faith. I just knew I'd be well again."

I hope your letter will help people as much as I know it can! Both you and I realize the overwhelming importance of faith.

Let me add these few thoughts. Medically, your method was perfect. There are multiple types of arthritis. You had rheumatoid, the bang-bang, inflammatory type. Older folk have the slow type, osteoarthritis, which attacks here or there gradually, and not all over.

But in either type, it is vital to keep the joints moving. Heavy or prolonged strain is to be avoided. Rest is necessary. But movement, too, is needed to prevent the joints from "freezing."

As you so well know, movement is agonizing. But as you know, too, it is vital. Thank you for your splendid exposition of a very important fact.

No Lubricator

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is a daily (on awakening) tablespoon of olive oil harmful? I feel it lubricates the system and helps digestion. My family tell me not to take it as I may be doing more harm than good. Will you clarify this? — M.W."

Olive oil is a perfectly good vegetable oil. It does not "lubricate the system," since it just goes into the stomach and is digested like a part of but-ter. It does not help digestion. But unless you are overweight, and the calories are verboten, I can't think of any reason why you shouldn't take it if you want to. (I presume that this frank answer will make everybody in your family hate me!) (Copyright, 1958)

Farmers Bureau
Decries Single Support Plan
Urges Diversified Attack on Problem Of Marketing Crops
Madison — Farmers should quit putting all their eggs in the one basket of price supports and use as many means as possible to protect their incomes, the Farm Bureau said. The organization has asked congress to keep dairy price supports at their present levels, but it is taking other steps to strengthen dairying, it reported. It has asked the secretary of agriculture to include Wisconsin in a special program now under way in four states to retire entire farms from production. This would help the dairy industry this year, the bureau said. It is drafting a long range plan to retire entire farms in all states, it reported.

Cut Production Cost
The bureau said farmers can offset adverse prices by cutting costs of production. It is cooperating with the college of agriculture in projects to grow higher protein hay, make new uses of antibiotics to cut animal diseases, and of chemicals to control weeds and raise yields, and in testing for increased production per cow. Wisconsin farmers should strengthen their cooperatives for processing and marketing dairy products, the bureau urged. The university has just completed a study, made at Bureau request, disclosing opportunities for better prices through improved marketing in southwestern counties, it reported. Survey Findings Farmers are urged to extend the advertising program of the American Dairy association and to intensify local dairy promotions. The Farm Bureau is sponsoring a national campaign to improve diets and is asking Gov. Vernon Thomson to proclaim a "food comes first" week Feb. 23. The American Farm Bureau is sponsoring a national food conference in Washington that week. President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson are scheduled speakers. County Farm Bureau dairy committees are meeting this week for reports on a recent Farm Bureau dairy conference in Madison. Donald Hirsch, American Farm Bureau economist, and Frank L. Wing, Wisconsin Farm Bureau commodity director, will participate.

County Hospital Farm Tests Prove Effect Of Land Leveling Work

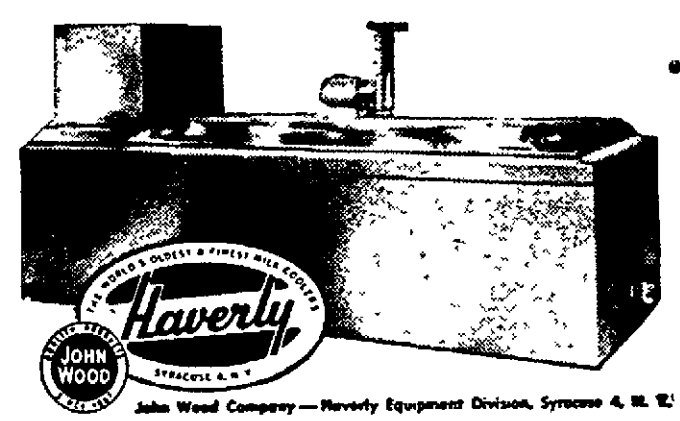

Waupaca Conservationist Finds Increased Yields on Land Aided by Good Drainage
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Waupaca — Tests conducted at the Waupaca County Hospital Farm during the last two years show that land leveling practices bring greater yields per acre than unlevelled or even tiled areas, according to Herb Tauchen, soil conservation worker in the county. Land smoothing or leveling is the grading or planing of the ground surface by mechanical means in order to reduce the small elevated areas and fill in minor depressions. It provides a uniform plane on which surface water can move into field drains without collecting in pot-holes. On the county trial plots, a comparison of surface drainage, tiling and land smoothing was made. Land smoothing was the best single drainage system of the three. The demonstration area also showed that tile drained land can be considerably improved by land smoothing. Results in 1956 on low fertility land to which 200 pounds per acre of fertilizer was surface applied show 89 bushels of corn yielded per acre on tiled land and 98 bushels on land smoothed areas. The check plot, nothing improved, yielded 93 bushels. Discing was 12 inches. The same type plot during 1957 yielded 55 bushels on tiled land and 72 bushels on land smoothed land in comparison to 46 bushels on the check plot. Reasons For Increases The several reasons for increased yields per acre are earlier planting, constant depth of plowing and tillage, and uniform placement of seeds and fertilizer. As a result crops grow evenly throughout the year and mature uniformly. Machinery is also operated more easily. Costs of land smoothing usually varies from $20 to $40 per acre, but the increased crop yields will usually pay for the investment in two to four years. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Soil Conservation service, Waupaca courthouse.

Farm agencies in Outagamie, Calumet and Waupaca counties will meet with Jay Joslyn, Post-Crescent farm editor, at 1:30 Friday afternoon at the court house in Appleton to discuss more extensive coverage of farm news. The meeting, organized by John E. Powers, Outagamie county agent, will bring together Robert Wilms of the Farm Home association, Vern Geiger of the Soil Conservation service, Joseph Rickert of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, Alex Kotovich, county forester; Ed Kreutzberg of the Farm Bureau, Paul Porter of the Grange, Elwyn Staley of the 4-H clubs, Orrin Meyer, Calumet county agent, and Mike Drozd, Waupaca county agent.

you should ask yourself before you buy a bulk milk cooler!

- 1 Will it cool when the power is off?
Haverly will cool without mechanical refrigeration and without electricity.
- 2 Will milk temperature go up between milkings?
Since copper cools the milk, the temperature always goes down, never goes up.
- 3 Will it provide cream line cooling?
Copper provides continuous 24 hours a day cream line cooling.
- 4 Does outside heat affect the temperature of the milk?
With Haverly's copper cold wall construction, not one B.T.U. of heat that passes through the side walls or bottom ever reaches the milk, but is transferred by the copper into the cold zone. With 4" of cork insulation the problem is reduced to a minimum.
- 5 Is mechanical agitation necessary between milkings?
Not so a Haverly because the copper cold walls give continuous slow but natural agitation 24 hours a day.

13th Ring Test Reveals 3.8 Per Cent Positive Brucellosis Reactors

Calumet Still Low in 4-County Area;
Outagamie Showed the Greatest Drop

The percentage of positive reactions to the milk ring test for brucellosis declined in every county of the state for the 13th round just completed. The state department of agriculture reported only 3.8 per cent of the milk ring tests reacted positively throughout the state.

Outagamie county showed the greatest decline in positive reactors in the four counties in the Fox Cities area. However, it continued to show the greatest percentage of positive reactors.

Lowest Percentage
Calumet county improved its position of having the least positive reactor percentage. In the 12th ring test it showed a 4.3 per cent out of 1,499 herds tested. The 13th test showed a 2.2 per cent decline to 2.1 per cent of 1,485 herds tested.

Winnebago county showed a 3.1 per cent decline from 6 per cent of 1,565 tested to 2.9 per cent of 1,546 herds. Waupaca county had 4.9 per cent in 2,156 herds in the 13th test, a drop of 2.6 per cent from 7.5 per cent in 2,219 herds tested in the 12th go-around. The 13th test was given in 2,431 herds in Outagamie county with a 5.1 per cent positive result. In the 12th test 9.9 per cent in 2,445 reacted positively. The 13th test was given to 110,897 herds in the state compared with 111,947 in the 12th test. The percentage of reactors dropped from 6.4 per cent to 3.8.

Jersey Cow Cracks Breed Record on New Jersey Farm

Columbus, Ohio — A New Jersey cow has shattered all milk production records for the Jersey breed in North America. Marlu Milady completed an official record of 25,298 pounds of milk with 1,210 pounds of butterfat over a period of 365 days, the American Jersey Cattle club announced. The new record broke the mark Marlu set last year.

Marlu farm, at Lincroft, N. J., is owned by Curtis Hobson.

Lambing Ewes Outdoor Themselves for Assessor

Grantsville, Utah — Tooele County Assessor William R. Judd is a pretty good man with figures, but this time of year he could use an adding machine at home. He raises a few sheep as a hobby.

On a morning check at the corral, he found one ewe with a new-born lamb. A couple of hours later, another ewe produced twins, and a few minutes later a third came forth with triplets.

Judd dutifully made his evening check. You guessed it—a fourth ewe had given birth to quadruplets.

Reduction of Pea Crop Yields Blamed on Lack of Phosphorous

Lack of phosphorous can reduce pea yields drastically, according to tests by University of Wisconsin soils researchers James Bartz and K. C. Berger. They conducted experiments last year on a soil with low levels of available phosphorous. Alaska peas fertilized with 500 pounds of triple superphosphate per acre banded below the row yielded 650 to 800 pounds more peas than unfertilized plots. A foliage spray containing 0.1 per cent to 0.25 per cent phosphoric acid did not injure the plants and did give yield increases on unfertilized plots. Such sprays, applied at blossoming time, didn't help plots which had been fertilized. Such sprays could be applied with insecticides, the researchers say. They are recommending fertilization of the soil as the preferred method, however.

Study Materials
Bartz and Berger also tested various new type phosphorous-carrying materials to study their suitability for fertilizer use. Most of the materials they tried are not available at reasonable cost to fertilizer manufacturers, however. Peas draw heaviest on soil phosphorous right after blossoming, according to research using radio-active fertilizers. The tests show that a lack of phosphorous reduces the number of pods set by the plant, rather than the number of peas per pod.

In greenhouse tests, Bartz and Berger grew plants with radio-active fertilizer as the only source of phosphorous for varying lengths of time. Measurements with a Geiger counter showed where the phosphorous went in the plants and how much was present.

In research with boron, Bartz and Berger found that peas needed very little of the element. But without any boron, the plants would often die or fail to set pods. Deficiencies are very unlikely, the researchers say, and boron fertilizers should not be applied on peas.

Cow Blithely Increases Her Milk Production
Unaware of Trouble She Causes, Bossy Sets New Records

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — With a queenly disregard for the distress she is causing for such people as Agriculture Secretary Benson and the dairy state congressmen, the Wisconsin milk cow is steadily improving her record as a milk producer.

A new high average production record was set by the dairy cows of the state during 1957, the state department of agriculture today noted through its crop statistics service.

The average cow produced 7,624 pounds of milk during the period. Many individual animals were far above that amount. The average has been steadily improved in each recent year and there is every sign that the production improvement will be continued.

Some economists are now forecasting that the typical cow in the state will produce 10,000 pounds of milk yearly at a relatively early time.

Reasons for Improvement
Better feeding, improved methods of sanitation and disease control, better housing and better care in all respects have improved the milk output records of the individual animals. But even more important is the fact that the inherent productive capacity of the cow today is superior to that of most of her ancestors.

Better breeding has accounted for better output. There are now more than 12,000 Wisconsin dairy herds on the production records program, an all-time record.

Alfalfa, State's Finest Silage, Pasture Crop

Increasing Acreage of Legume Seen In Outagamie in Last 10 Years

BY JOHN E. POWERS
Outagamie County Agricultural Agent and nutrients for livestock feed. Alfalfa is Wisconsin's most important legume for hay, silage and pasture. It provides alfalfa acreage has increased an economic, dependable, substantially. Nearly 70,000 home-grown source of protein acres were grown in 1955 for a record high and the fifth largest alfalfa acreage in any Wisconsin county. This acreage is more than three times the 1945 to 1949 average. The average yield per acre in 1955 was 2.4 tons per year. Purchased feed bills, particularly for protein, can be greatly reduced by growing better alfalfa and increasing the yield per acre. It is important to use varieties that will produce well and persist during our cold winters.

Growing Problems

The two greatest problems of growing alfalfa are winter killing and bacterial wilt disease. Today, Wisconsin varieties will combine exceptional winter survival and resistance to the wilt disease. The persistence of these varieties makes it possible to plow down alfalfa when you want to rather than when you have to. With these varieties, yields of 4 tons per acre per year are possible for as many years as good management and good fertilization practices are followed.

The varieties recommended are Vernal and Ranger. Most common varieties of alfalfa fail to meet the test of winter survival and resistance to wilt diseases. Varieties like Vernal, Ranger, Cossack, Grimm, or Ladak, are very winter hardy. Vernal and Ranger are also resistant to bacterial wilt disease.

The commons are all susceptible to wilt disease. As a result, Vernal has been an exceptional high yielder in all tests made throughout the state.

Streptomycin-Type Brucellosis Vaccines Fail to Meet Standard

Advantages Overridden by Lack of Preventive Properties in Method

The use of streptomycin-dependent brucellosis organisms for cattle vaccine doesn't seem very promising, according to latest research by University of Wisconsin veterinary scientists.

This type of vaccine had seemed to have some advantages. One outstanding advantage was that there would be fewer persistent reactors in herds vaccinated with streptomycin - dependent organisms. The disease organisms require streptomycin for growth; since streptomycin isn't present in a cow's body tissues, the organisms fail to grow and thus cannot cause the disease or cause persistent reactions to diagnostic tests for the disease.

Tests several years ago showed that the drug-dependent vaccine was safe—that there was little danger of the organisms reverting to a dangerous form. Vaccines Fail

But the final test of any vaccine is whether it protects the vaccinated animal against the disease. That's where the streptomycin - dependent vaccines failed.

D. T. Berman, university veterinary scientist, used the vaccine on 30 heifer calves and compared their resistance to brucellosis infection with 30 calves vaccinated with the usual strain 19 vaccine and with 20 unvaccinated calves. Those vaccinated with streptomycin - dependent organisms didn't fare any better than unvaccinated animals, he found. The ones vaccinated with strain 19 had the greatest resistance to infection.

Thus, the scientist has concluded that brucellosis vaccines made with streptomycin - dependent organisms are not effective, even though they are safe. Strain 19 vaccine remains the best weapon against brucellosis.

Workshop for Leader Training Set for Wausau

Recreation Techniques To be Discussed at Youth Camp Meeting

A Recreation Leader Training workshop will be held at the Wausau Youth camp April 7 through 12.

Attendance is open to any person 17 years or older who is interested in recreation and its place in club and community activities, according to Bruce L. Cartter, assistant state young men and women's leader at the University of Wisconsin.

This is the 20th year that such leadership training has been offered by the Wisconsin Recreation Leaders Laboratory association, says Cartter. Basic crafts including creative design, basket weaving, block printing, stencil painting and leather work may be studied.

Also, community song leadership, nature conservation and short term crafts for camp activities are included. Folk and square dancing instruction plus a section on dramatics, including directing, acting and creating dramatic skits will be offered.

The County Agent Answers

How soon should lawns be fertilized?

This job should be done as soon as you can get on the area without causing damage. Early fertilization gives the grass a chance to get a head start on other plant competition and to develop its root system during the cool, moist growing part of the season. The general recommendation for Outagamie county is 20 pounds of 10-10-10 per thousand square feet of lawn. If difficulty is experienced, a soil test is advised.

What new finishes on clothing can we look for in the near future?

Anti-static — a finish to overcome pilling, snap, crackle and accumulation of dirt and line due to static build-ups in man-made fiber fabrics. It has already been successfully applied to arnel tricort. New absorber-fabulized which is said to give a high degree of absorbency to all man-made fibers that normally lack this property. Agent Announces Wide Selection Of Varied Interests

Waupaca — The deadline for enrollment in 1958 projects for 4-H members is April 1, according to Gene Hoye, club agent.

Club projects range from raising vegetables to growing trees and from sewing projects to household management. Some of the awards and contests offered this year include the Farmway award, fire prevention contest, music and drama festival competition, poultry projects and membership in the state band and chorus.

The Farmway award is a $25 bond to a boy and a girl under the age of 14 who keeps the best record book during the year. The fire prevention contest includes farm safety this year. The entry deadline is May 1.

What jobs should be done on the flower garden during March?

Petunias and snaps should be planted in the transplant bed. Begin removing mulch from roses and other perennials. It should be removed a little at a time as the weather begins to warm up. Tuberous rooted begonias and gloxinias can still be started during this month.

What is the average investment per farm worker today?

Farms have a higher capitalization and mechanization is rapidly increasing. Capitalization varies from $30,000 to $50,000 or more per farm. The average investment for farm workers now stands at $16,800. Farmers are using three times as much machinery than in 1940.

the music and drama festivals may be obtained from the club agent. The music festival will be April 9, and the drama festival April 16.

The deadline for the poultry project is March 28. Members must contact the county poultry committee which makes arrangement for payment of the birds with the Sears foundation. The foundation pays initial chick costs and upon selling the birds, the 4-H member repays the initial investment to the committee. Members must raise one of three types of fowl, 100 capons, 200 broilers or 200 turkeys. Plaques are awarded for the best job in the county.

State band and chorus members must register by March 21 and must be at least 15 years old.

Population and Crime Rising Through Canada

Short Handed Police Trying to Cope With Killings, Holdups

Toronto — Like twin thermometers, crime and population are rising throughout Canada.

Violence has shown an alarming upturn in such crowded cities as Montreal and Toronto, where short-handed police departments have been trying to cope with a rash of killings, holdups and bank robberies.

In the smaller towns—less affected by overcrowded living conditions—the main problem has been an increase in house-breaking, forgery and other minor infractions.

Authorities are deeply concerned over the surge of lawlessness and the role youth is playing.

Numerous Holdups
“There are numerous holdups... mostly by armed youths running the streets,” said Montreal Judge Wilfrid Lazure.

Special squads have been formed to fight the wave, which saw 43 bank holdups in Montreal last year. Toronto police also have formed special teams to concentrate on the wave of bank robberies plaguing that city.

“We must await the commission of an actual crime.”

Canada has a serious juvenile delinquency problem, but it involves individual infractions for the most part. The roving bands of “boot-suited” who turned some of Canada's main streets into battlegrounds after World War II have virtually disappeared.

In their place have arisen small groups who steal cars for joyrides, get into fights at public dances, disturb the peace in other ways and in the big cities go in for more serious crime.

Juvenile Squad
Toronto has begun screening men to staff a juvenile squad.

In Weyburn, the local police chief toured the city lecturing to parents' groups on delinquency. Police Athletic League units have been set up in a number of communities to interest the young in sports and recreational programs.

In Montreal, religious leaders have warned that “immoral and seductive” literature is “flooding the city and might contribute to the corruption of a whole generation.”

Judge J. Elliott Hudson of Halifax summed up a general view that parents were mainly to blame for the current youth problem.

“Most of the cases that appear come from broken homes,” he said. “If parents are alert to the problems of bringing up their children, they won't be likely to appear in this court.”

Dr. Edward Teller Issues Indictment Of U. S. Education

Cleveland — Dr. Edward Teller, who has been called the father of the H-bomb, issued an indictment of education in this country Monday night, calling Americans “scandalously under-educated in science.”

“Unless Americans accept the challenges of today,” the scientist-lecturer said, “the world will become a vast Soviet satellite and within 10 years Russia will be scientifically supreme.”

“Thanks to our education today,” he declared, “we shall develop the best football players in the world — for whatever good that does us.”

He urged science education in the first grade, commenting that there are more educated youngsters in Russia than in this country.

Decrying what he termed a rift between intellectuals and the mass of the people, Dr. Teller remarked that “in this country nothing is worth while unless it pleases the masses.”

Children here are taught quickly that education is boring, Dr. Teller said in the 69th Hanna memorial lecture in Severance hall. In Russia, he added, respect for learning comes close to adoration.
